BRITISH ACE HOPS OFF ON WESTWARD ATLANTIC FLIGHT

London Considers It Possible
Capt. Walter Hinchliffe's Companion Is the Hon. Elsie Mackay.

U. S. REPORTED TO BE DESTINATION

Attempt to Span Ocean Is Being Made in an American-Built Plane, the "Adventure."

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, March 12.—Off on an attempt to conquer the Atlantic, Capt. Walter Hinchliffe, one of England's brilliant aviators, sped from the Cranwell airfield at 1:40 o'clock this morning in his American-built plane, "The Adventure."

The mystery that attached to the take-off, which was made with the utmost secrecy, was further complicated by the presence of a mysterious passenger that may possibly have been the Honorable Elsie Mackay, daughter of Lord Inchcape.

Although first reports said that Capt. Gordon Sinclair, a reserve pilot, was in the plane, there was no positive confirmation of his presence.

When plans for the Atlantic were first announced, it was stated that Miss Mackay, who has accompanied the project financially, would make the trip, but she promptly disclaimed any intention of doing so.

Inquiries at Miss Mackay's home this evening, however, failed to elicit any information concerning her whereabouts. A plane believed to be "The Adventure" was reported this afternoon over Ireland flying in a westerly direction.

The Evening News says that before leaving Cranwell, Capt. Hinchliffe left the following message: "I am starting out from Cranwell in an attempt to fly the Atlantic."

At 1:50 in the afternoon an airplane was reported passing over Nizenedad, a cape of Southern Ireland, County Cork, a little more than 400 miles from Cranwell.

"The Adventure" had sufficient fuel aboard for at least a 3,000-mile journey, and prior to his start Capt. Hinchliffe had made inquiries regarding atmospheric conditions on the Atlantic. He had been informed by the Meteorological Office that ocean conditions were fairly good.

BARONESS KILLED WITH HER PUPIL IN PLANE CRASH

Lady Carbery, Irish Noblewoman, Had Taken Student on Flight Over Field in Africa.

By the Associated Press.
NAIROBI, Kenya, Africa, March 12.—Lady Carbery, wife of Baron Carbery, Irish peer, was killed yesterday in an airplane crash. A pupil named Cowie with whom she was flying also was killed.

The plane lost speed while flying and went into a spin. Lord Carbery saw the accident from the airfield.

Lady Carbery was Maiva Iva Anderson of Nairobi and was Baron Carbery's second wife, marrying him in 1922. The couple had spent their time between California and the Baron's coffee farm in Kenya Colony.

Last November he announced that he intended to take out final papers and become an American citizen. Prior to that he dropped the use of his title, simply styling himself John Carbery.

Lady Carbery was 17 years old when she married. She was the daughter of Alfred Anderson.

HAYS ADMITS SPECULATING IN SINCLAIR OIL STOCKS

Doesn't Think Deal With Magna Discreditable and relevant."

MELLON AND BUTLER
REJECTED HIS OFFER

Both Testify They Refused to Aid Him in Camouflaging $160,000 Gift by Teapot Dome Lessee.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 12.—Will H. Hays, "movie czar," former chairman of the Republican National Committee, and Postmaster-General in Harding's Cabinet, told the Senate Teapot Dome Committee today that he had lost a lot of money dealing in Sinclair Consolidated Oil stock. Hays said he had both bought and sold the stock of the company in which Harry F.
Sinclair, lessee of Teapot Dome, is heavily interested, about 1923.

This testimony came after Hays had testified that he had sought to have Secretary Mellon and William M. Butler, chairman of the Republican National Committee, accept bonds from him in 1923 and contribute an amount equal to that he gave them in bonds toward wiping out the committee's 1920 deficit.

Both Mellon and Butler previously had testified they had rejected Hays' proposition. Hays defended himself from not disclosing this information to the committee on March 1 by saying the matter was irrelevant.

Sinclair drew from Hays the information that Sinclair retained to him $85,000 Hays had sent to the oil operator after the Teapot scandal had come to light.

"What was said when Sinclair returned the securities," Hays was asked. "He sent them to me, Senator, he sent them to me."

"How," "Through a friend, James P. Convery of Chicago."

"Who is he?" "He's in the coal business and is a friend and client."

"Did you undertake in any way to handle any other of the Sinclair bonds?" asked Senator Butler. "No, I cannot recall any thing more."

CALIFORNIA DAM BREAKS; FATALITIES MAY TOTAL 400; 125 BODIES ARE RECOVERED

Wreckage of Giant California Dam

New York Exchange Sets Record With 3,913,400
Shares Changing Hands During Day.

CORPORATION SHARES
BETWEEN 140 AND 160

Questionnaires Sent Out for Daily Reports on Issue—Western Union Denies Buying.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, March 12.—Common stock of the Radio Corporation, an alleged "technical corner" of which is under investigation by the Stock Exchange, fluctuated violently between an opening of $160 and a low price of $140 in the stock market today.

Radio opened with a block of 25,000 shares at a new peak price of $160, an overnight gain of $21.50, then breaking to $140, and rallying again by early afternoon to $152 on the urgent retreat of a panic-stricken short interest.

"Bear" traders in other stocks, alarmed by the terrific beating administered to shorts in General Motor and Radio in the last 10 days, rushed to cover, but were forced to compete with the buying orders of a small army of small speculators throughout the country, who sought to participate in the so-called "battle of billions" between financial giants in Wall Street.

Total transactions in Radio in the last eight days more than exceeded the outstanding capitalization of 1,351,490 shares, testifying to the gigantic speculation in that stock. President Harbord reiterated today that no internal reason existed for the activity of the stock.

Radio closes at 146.
Prices of many stocks headed downward just before the close.
Radio, which had rallied to $152 from an earlier low of $140, plunged downward in the last 15 minutes to close at $146, a net gain of 15 cents. International Nickel, which had advanced $4.50 to $98, collapsed to $88.50. United States Steel and General Motors ended the day $2.50 and $1 a share lower, respectively.

The constitution of the Stock Exchange provides that whenever, in the opinion of the governing committee, a corner has been created in a security, or a single individual or group has acquired such control that the same cannot be obtained for delivery on existing contracts except at prices and on terms arbitrarily dictated by such interests, the time for deliveries may be postponed and the committee authorized to fix a fair settlement price in the event that the parties to the contract are unable to agree.

Questionnaires Sent Out.
The exchange through its business conduct committee, had sent out a questionnaire to members, requiring them to make daily reports at 11 a. m. beginning today and until further notice, of their position in the stock as of the close of business the day before. The following information is requested:

Aggregate long and aggregate short accounts of the member and its customers; number of shares borrowed, and from whom; number of shares loaned, and to whom.
With less than 1,200,000 shares of stock outstanding and the majority held in the treasuries of the General Electric and Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Companies and in the hands of the Arthur W. Catten and Fisher Brothers, it has been reported that less than a quarter of a million shares has comprised the so-called "floating supply" in brokerage houses.

SURVIVOR, 80, TELLS HOW DISASTER STRUCK

C. H. Hunick, Rescued by His Son, Not Told of Deaths of Two Other Offspring

By the Associated Press.
NEWHALL, Cal., March 12.—C.
H. Hunick, 80 years old, related to the emergency hospital here today how he was rescued by one of his sons from the swirling waters of the flood after the St. Francis dam broke, just as he had given up all hope of being saved.

"Our ranch house," he said, "was located a mile and a half below the dam. When the water hit it, the house crumpled as though it were built of cards. I could not see a thing in the darkness, but found myself clinging to what remained of a part of the roof of our house."

"Down, down with the current we went. I held on desperately. I kept saying to myself every second I was my last. I knew that I could not last long. I am old and my strength was going fast, but I hung on."

"Then—I must have floated for miles—somebody grabbed my arm in the darkness."

"Is that you, Dad? I knew that it was one of my sons. He got me over to the plank he was on. I don't remember much after that.
I wonder if they saved the other two boys."

They did not tell the man that the bodies of the two sons for whom he inquired lay in a temporary morgue nearby.

Only One House Standing For Ten Miles Below Dam, Airplane View Discloses

Blooming Citrus Groves Replaced by Bare Exposed of Yellow Sand When Wall of Water Swept Canyon.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 12.—
A staff correspondent of the Associated Press, who flew over the desolate San Francisco Canyon today, viewed from the air the shattered St. Francis dam, with only its central section standing, a gloomy sentinel over the death and destruction that stretched down the once beautiful valley.

Through the great embrasures on either side, where the east and west wings had been crashed outward by the pressure of five miles of water, the torrent had poured, stretching the broken sections prone and then rushing down the canyon, gouging out everything in its path.

Looking down the valley, where yesterday had bloomed numerous little citrus groves, there was nothing to be seen but a bare expanse of yellow sand, piled on top of 20 feet, by the wall of water that had swept over it.

For a stretch of approximately 10 miles below the dam not a structure remained standing except a powerhouse. Here and there a forlorn palm tree clung to the sides of the gorge.

From the air the deserted canyon seemed to have been cut out and overlaid with a yellow coating by some giant's knife. Sharp edges like the cutbanks of the Grand Canyon stood out in grim relief, where fertile fields had lain the night before.

Below the powerhouse, approximately 12 miles from the dam itself, the highway bridge across the river had which widened out of the mouth of the canyon, had been carried away, and on both sides, automobiles were banked seeking a crossing.

HUGE WALL OF WATER GOES DOWN CANYON DURING NIGHT

Storage Basin of Los Angeles Aqueduct System
Bursts 185-Foot Barrier
45 Miles North of City.

HOMES AND CAMPS ARE WIPED OUT

Only Few Survivors Accounted for and Hundreds Are Likely Buried Deep in Sand.

By the Associated Press.

NEWHALL, Cal., March 12.— Bodies of 125 persons, swept to death in San Francisco Canyon, 45 miles north of Los Angeles, early today when the St. Francis dam broke, had been recovered early this afternoon. The bodies, which were mounting slowly as rescue workers continued to search the stricken area. They have expressed the fear that 400 persons may have perished when a 75-foot wall of water swept through the canyon shortly before 1 a. m. today.

Everything was swept away—human beings, houses, cabins, workmen's tents, orchards and live stock. Of the estimated 500 persons who were in the narrow canyon and lowlands below at the time the dam gave way, only a few more than a hundred had been accounted for.

Hemmed in by the precipitous sides of San Francisco, the canyon dwellers and power company workers engaged in constructing new pole lines had little chance for life.

Bodies were recovered along the Santa Clara river, into which the torrent disgorged itself. Only a small percentage could be identified.

Rescuers pleaded through muck deep in search of the dead.
Temporary morgues, hospitals and rescue stations were set up at Newhall, Newhall, Oxnard, Fillmore, Piru, Moorpark and other inland towns along the route of the flood.

Because of the almost complete destruction of communication facilities in the devastated zone, it was virtually impossible to state definitely the number of bodies recovered.

What caused the retaining parapet of the second-largest reservoir of the Los Angeles city water system to give way was almost a mystery as the number of dead that lay buried beneath the deep covering of yellow sand which new carpets the pretty little valley.

While thousands of officers from Los Angeles City and County, augmented by additional thousands of volunteer ranchers and farmers from the Newhall and Santa Ana areas, searched the rugged slopes for bodies, officials of the city water system surveyed the broken dam.

Theory as to Cause of Disaster.
The theory most credited this morning was that seepage through an abutting hill had caused one of the supporting ends of the structure to give away under its tremendous load of approximately 1,000,000,000 gallons of water.

With only the flash of a short-circuited high power line to serve as a warning to the hundreds who lived in cabins and ranch homes the length of the valley, a great unshakable wave estimated to have been 75 feet high rushed furiously toward the sea. Nothing stood before it.

Mountain cabins, ranch homes, a city power plant and, it is believed, a tented city inhabited by

Inquiry

Mellon left the stand, he was shown the memorandum made by the late John T. Pratt, relating to cashing Liberty bonds, and on which were the names "Weeks, Butler, Andy, du Pont."

"It develops now that Weeks got some of the bonds; that du Pont got some and Secretary Mellon got some," Walsh said. "Did you get any?" "No," Butler replied.

"Do you know of any one who did get any?" "I don't think so," Walsh asked. "That Mr. Hays got some of the bonds; that du Pont got some and Secretary Mellon got some," Walsh said. "Did you get any?" "No," Butler replied.

Butler, too, rejected Hays' offer. Butler also had heard "gossip" about the bonds.

"What was the nature of that?" Walsh asked. "That Mr. Hays got some of the bonds; that du Pont got some and Secretary Mellon got some," Walsh said. "Did you get any?" "No," Butler replied.

LINDBERG TAKES OFF FROM CURTIS FIELD WITH ATTORNEY

By the Associated Press.
CURTIS FIELD, N. Y., March 13.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, accompanied by Henry Breckenridge, his counsel, took off in an airplane at 12:34 o'clock this afternoon for an unannounced destination.

It was thought that he intended to fly ultimately to San Diego, Cal., in easy stages. The first stop, his friends believed, would be at Albany, N. Y. The plane carried 100 gallons of gasoline.

The field was muddy, due to recent snows and rains, but the Colonel hopped off without difficulty.

$30,000 IN DIAMONDS REPORTED MISSING

Chicago Importer Tells St. Louis Police He Lost Them or Was Robbed.

James F. Harrison, a Chicago diamond importer, who arrived here from Chicago this morning, reported to the police he had lost or had been robbed of uncut diamonds worth $30,000, and $82 in currency.

The jewels and money were in a wallet, which was wrapped in newspaper and carried in his overcoat pocket, he explained. After breakfast at Union Station, Harrison, seeking his approval of a proposal they have in mind to submit to the voters in the November election, on the State ballot, for the annexation of the county by the city. Mayor Miller expressed sympathy with the proposal and gave it his personal endorsement.

COUNTY ANNEXATION GROUP PLANNING STATEWIDE VOTE

Delegation Intends to Circulate Initiative Petitions, Mayor Miller Is Told.

A delegation of St. Louis County citizens, headed by Mayor Miller today, seeking his approval of a proposal they have in mind to submit to the voters in the November election, on the State ballot, for the annexation of the county by the city. Mayor Miller expressed sympathy with the proposal and gave it his personal endorsement.

The delegation, headed by Hugh K. Wagner, an attorney, was composed of David I. Zucker, Webster Groves, Dr. J. Thurman, 6725 Page boulevard; Joseph Forshee, Jr., Richmond Heights; Dr. James H. Tanquary, Webster; and Dr. Theodor Stellcamp.

Wagner told Mayor Miller it was planned to circulate initiative petitions in 11 Congressional districts of the State to put the proposition on the ballot. He told reporters this would be legal and binding under the initiative and referendum created by the Constitution, and, further, that, in the event of an affirmative State-wide vote, annexation would become a fact. He added that the consent of residents of a district to be annexed did not have to be obtained under the initiative and referendum.

An annexation proposal was defeated by a vote of two to one at a special election in October, 1924.

PAROLED YOUTH ON WILD ESCAPE IN STOLEN AUTO

Takes Machine From Owner at Grand and Russell, Crashes Into Another, Fires at Occupants.

WRECKS ROADSTER AGAINST STREET CAR

C. H. Fedder, 18, Who Served in Boonville for Robbery, Blames Liquor for Latest Experience.

Carson Harold Tedder, on parole from the Boonville Reformatory, arrived at a police station by a circuitous route last night, having held up a motorist, fired shots at three automobiles and collided with an automobile and a street car in the course of an otherwise uneventful three-hour journey about the city.

With his automatic pistol drawn, and his breath reeking of alcohol, Tedder leaped onto the running-board of a roadster at Grand and Russell boulevards at 7:30 o'clock. "Move over," said Tedder to the driver, William Miller, 1711 Bonita avenue, Richmond Heights. Miller obeyed. The engine died. Tedder fired a shot under the hood, stepped on the starter, and drove on. Four blocks west he made Miller get out, warning him not to tell police.

Crashed Into Auto.
Driving wilder every minute, Tedder crashed into an automobile at Forest Park and Taylor avenues and sped on. The occupants of the other car, Henry Horn and his son, Walter, of 5014 Murdoch avenue, gave chase until Tedder crashed into them, and fired five shots at them. The shots missed them, but one bullet passed through the windshield of a car driven by Mrs. Knight Woodward, 14 North Kingshighway.

At Page boulevard and Hodiament tracks, Tedder crashed into the side of a Hodiament street car, wrecking the auto. With his head out from glass, he crawled out and ran away. At 10:30 police arrested him in Webster as he came out of a physician's office with his head bandaged.

Blamed Drink.
His pistol was missing, but his alcoholic breath lingered, and he blamed his escapade on drink. He was locked up at the Page Boulevard Station, charged with stealing an automobile, carrying a concealed weapon, discharging firearms and violating a parole.

Records show that Tedder was sentenced to Boonville Reformatory for highway robbery March 1, 1926, and paroled Jan. 12, 1927. He says he is 18 years old, and lives at 4156 Lucky street.

Favorable Conditions Likely If He Heads for Newfoundland.
ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 13.—Favorable conditions are likely to greet Capt. Hinchliffe if he heads for Newfoundland on his flight from England.

The weather here today was clear with moderate temperature.

On land the snow is not deep enough to cause serious trouble in the event of an attempted landing. Over the Grand Banks there is a great mass of ice and the temperature in that vicinity is likely to be considerably lower than on the island. Nine steamers of the Sealing fleet are cruising in an area roughly 120 miles east of the northern peninsula of Newfoundland.

SPECIFICATIONS FOR BRIDGE APPROACH ARE APPROVED

Board of Public Service to Receive Bids April 17 for Steel, to Cost $600,000.

Plans and specifications for the steel to be used in the southern approach to the Municipal Bridge were approved today by the Board of Public Service. Bids will be received April 17.

President Kinsey of the board estimates that the 6000 tons of steel required can be bought for about $110 a ton, a total of $660,000. Erection and painting of the steel will cost about $150,000 more. There will be a further cost for cables and ties. The steel will extend over 2225 feet and there will be an additional 600 feet of embankment.

A contract was let some time ago for the embankment and concrete foundation for the approach, at a cost of $140,000. President Kinsey says the entire approach can be built for less than the $1,500,000 provided in the bond issue.

The steel work on the approach is to be started simultaneously at both ends.

Where Broken Dam Loosed Flood

California Dam Breaks; 400 Are Reported Dead

Ten Bodies at Saugus.

Ten bodies lay in an improvised morgue at Saugus, near here, this morning. These dead were recovered soon after the arrival of the first rescue squads. In addition 16 bodies had been taken to Moore Park before noon and five others were enroute there from a ranch where they were washed up.

So great was the volume of water that poured through the wide break in the dam that, despite the 36,000 acre feet of supply in the big reservoir, the flood spent itself in a few hours.

When dawn broke over the devastated areas, only a small stream was left where in the tragic hours of early morning death by degrees that may not be known for a day, if ever, was done. By this time the vanguard of the thousands of rescuers was on the scene and a systematic search of the areas was begun.

Estimates placed the total number of dwellers in the canyon area at a little more than 500.

Few Survivors Found.

Survivors were few, they came in struggling groups and their total had not caused rescue officials to cut their estimate of possible loss of life as the forenoon hours passed.

An undetermined number of persons apparently were trapped between the canyon walls. They included about 25 families who made their homes below the dam; the working camp of the employees of the Southern California Edison Co., and a group of employees at a power substation in the path of the deluge. Sheriff's officers said there was no chance of escape for the vast majority.

The Los Angeles Water and Power Bureau office here received a report that 150 men, employees of the bureau in camp at Kemp, had all perished, except one man.

The first report was that an earthquake might have caused the disaster.

Assertions that the dam was broken by a slight tremor, however, were discounted by William Mulholland, Los Angeles city engineer. Mulholland said the silt washed down by recent heavy rains had packed against the retaining wall, and forced it out.

Dam 185 Feet High.
The dam, a structure 185 feet high, impounded the water of San Francisco Creek, forming a storage lake five miles long and the full width of the canyon.

Bodies found have been identified as follows: Two men and a woman named Hunick, Rosie Eratchew, a child named Coe, two children named Holzcluth, W. Weinland, Gordon Cummins, wife and child; two Kelly children, Earl Crowder, George Bassolo.

Red Cross workers were sent to the scene, but their efforts were regarded by the Sheriff's officers as useless. William Bright, in charge of the Sheriff's rescue squad, declared there would be little use for relief work, as he felt certain virtually all the inhabitants of the canyon had perished.

Bright recruited between 500 and 600 men and deputized them to preserve order and search for bodies in the stricken area.

Among the places hit was the rodeo ranch of Harry Carey, film cowboy, on which about 100 persons lived. It was in the direct path of the wall of water, which at this point was reported to have been 75 feet high. Those on the ranch were thought to have perished.

Survivors Form Human Chain.
Five persons who came through the ordeal by joining hands, forming a human chain, and being carried to safety by the water after it had taken them from their beds, were the only survivors reported in first advices. They included B. W. Hunick, his father, Charles; another rancher named Holzcluth and his wife and son. All lived a mile north of Saugus, a considerable distance from the site of the dam.

A 12-year-old girl and a baby were reported to have been swept away at the Holzcluth place. Hunick reported his uncle and sister, whose names were not given, as missing.

Once out of the Canyon, the flood spread out between the sloping banks of the Santa Paula River, which held the volume. It cut a power line of the Southern California Edison Co., running into Santa Barbara, washed out a Southern Pacific branch line and bore down upon the lemon belt at the town of Santa Paula.

Once out of the little valley where it wrought so much damage, the water took the course of the Santa Clara River to flow 20 miles to the Pacific Ocean. Officials declared the damage along the Santa Clara would be enormous.

Mother Hunts for Her Child.
On a hillside there stood the pitiful figure of a woman, huddled in a vivid red sweater, wringing her hands. She told an Associated Press correspondent she was Mrs. Russell Hallen. Her little daughter had lived with her grandmother up San Francisco canyon. She pointed to the place where, the grandmother's home had stood, beside a cottonwood tree.

It was nothing but a table-like surface of yellow sand and the cottonwood tree had been stripped devoid of its bark by the wild waters. A grotesque figure in a long fur coat waded up and down the dwindling stream which followed in the wake of the 75-foot high torrent. It was Jimmy Errachow, a rescuer, half crazed by the disaster, searching for the bodies of his wife and baby.

Two Tremendous Flashes.
The dam itself had sent out one warning of disaster as its crumbling walls loomed in the distance. Dr. C. C. Ashley, proprietor of a sanitarium at Saugus, reported that shortly after midnight he saw two tremendous flashes, evidently from the breaking of the power line. Scenting trouble, he ordered his assistants to stand by to render aid.

The Los Angeles water supply is in no immediate danger of being seriously affected, according to the Bureau of Water and Power. It was said there was sufficient water in the San Fernando reservoir to last more than 48 hours.

LOSES SUIT FOR $7500 AFTER FILM IS SHOWN

Clerk Told in Court of Incapacitating Injury—in Work in Picture.

Motion pictures were introduced as a surprise today by the defense in a $7500 damage suit brought by Joseph Farkas, wholesale grocery clerk, against the Meyer-Schmid Grocery Co., 13 South Seventh street.

The jury in Circuit Court before which the case was tried brought in a verdict this afternoon for the company.

Farkas, who is 31 years old, is suing his former employers for alleged physical injuries suffered in October, 1926, when he slipped on a manhole cover and fell while at work. The defense said he was not injured as badly as he says, and introduced motion pictures of Farkas at work to support their contention.

The movies showed Farkas pulling trucks laden with boxes of groceries and from time to time stooping to pick up a large-sized box to shove it atop the truck. They were flashed on a small screen near the witness stand and were run over and over. They were taken with a concealed miniature movie camera, obtained by Francis Stout, attorney for the defense.

Farkas had already stated he was employed by The Thibbits-Hawley Grocery Co., 421 South Seventh street, but contended his work was fairly light. For the most part, he said, he superintended the work of others, but if the influx of groceries was heavy, took care of himself. He declared his fall into the manhole had weakened his back, interfering with his capacity to lift heavy boxes.

Neither Farkas nor his attorney objected to the introduction of the movie film. The defendant contended Farkas was not seriously injured and that his fall was a matter of negligence because he had worked in the cellar where the accident occurred for months and knew the location of the manhole.

Nicaraguan Congress Gets U. S. Order to Vote Today

Definite Acceptance or Rejection of Election Measure Called for by Envoys.

By the Associated Press.
MANAGUA, Nicaragua, March 13.—Leaders of the Nicaraguan Congress, who have been blocking the progress of the bill drawn by Gen. Frank C. McCoy for supervision of the October presidential election were notified last night by Gen. McCoy and Charles E. Everhardt, American Minister, that the measure must either be passed or definitely rejected not later than today.

President Diaz, who has been a strong supporter of the bill, assured the American representatives that it would be passed. Several amendments were accepted by McCoy and Everhardt.

Replaces Son Who Died.
Mrs. Lowther said she had taken Joseph and Marie in after she had responded to a newspaper advertisement for a mother for a boy 3 years old. One of her children, a boy about that age, had died a short time before. When Joseph was brought to the Lowther home by his father, who had been divorced from the children's mother, he asked if Marie wouldn't be taken the children back, cannot imagine why Joseph and Marie prefer to stay away from her.

"I was so good to them and did everything I could to make them happy during the two years they were with me," she told a reporter. "Even now I've got two spring clothes for Joe and some dresses for Marie, which I had just bought thinking they would be there with me this summer. I got Marie a puppy and Joe some pigeons."

"When they were staying with Mrs. Lowther before, I came down two summers to see them and I always wanted them. But I wasn't making much money right after their father and I separated and I thought I would take them back later. I don't care how much it costs, I'm going to stay until Joe and Marie go back with me."

Lowthers Ask for Writ.
The court hearing is on an application of Mr. and Mrs. Lowther, acting for the children, for a writ of habeas corpus to take them out of custody of the court. The children had been ordered to the House of Detention by Circuit Judge Hamilton after they refused to obey his order that they return with their mother. They were released and permitted to go to the Lowther home, however, after an appeal had been presented to the Court of Appeals.

Mrs. Flamm is staying with friends at 4515 Papin street.

CHILDREN FIGHT ORDER TO RETURN TO MOTHER

Boy and Girl Prefer Home in Normandy to Detroit Rooming House.

Joseph Flamm, 13 years old, and his sister, Marie, a year older, will learn today if they must obey a court decree that they return to their mother, Mrs. Marie Flamm of Detroit.

The court order, which has been appealed by Mr. and Mrs. Francis Lowther of Normandy, with whom Joseph and Marie made their home for eight years, is scheduled to be reviewed by the Court of Appeals.

Meanwhile the children, whose mother operates a 10-room rooming house in Detroit, insist they will not return to her.

Likes "Mother Lowther" Best.
"We want to stay with Mother Lowther," Marie told a Post-Dispatch reporter who visited at the Lowther home, a rambling, two-story house set in a vale amid large trees and shrubs, at the edge of Pasadena Park, in Normandy.

"We were away from her for two years and we tried to be satisfied staying with our mother, but we couldn't, it seemed."

"We decided to come back here a good while ago. We didn't get enough money to save so we could buy our railroad tickets, and Joe and I gathered bottles and rags and sold them to junk men to get our fares. Joe would get kindling wood for a lady who lived next door too, and she would give him 50 cents now and then. That way, we saved up $40, which was enough for our tickets and some sandwiches on the way from Detroit."

"We didn't say anything to anyone about leaving Detroit, but just came on and went to see Mother Lowther right away. Joe and I both are sure glad to be back. We used to miss Mother Lowther and the rest of the family so much. You see, we look upon them as our real family, because we lived with them for eight years, from the time Joe was about 2 and I was 4. All my friends I played with when I was a little girl live here too and I have been to see some of them."

"It was a whole lot different in Detroit. We didn't have a big place to play like we have here and we missed this and the other things we were used to. We hope the Court will let us stay, because I don't think we'd get along very well in Detroit."

RELIEF PARTIES REACH SNOWBOUND VILLAGE

Make Way Through Huge Drifts to Detour, Mich., With Mail—Food Dwindling.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., March 13.—Two relief parties bearing mail have made their way through the huge snow drifts that straddle the village of Detour, near here, but nothing has been accomplished to relieve the food shortage.

laden with mail, reached the place after traversing a circuitous route. The 600 inhabitants are in no danger of starvation, officials advised over the telephone today.

Meat and some vegetables are available, but flour has been exhausted, as well as staples. Access to the village is possible only to persons afoot, equipped with snow shoes, and then only with the utmost difficulty. Efforts to obtain airplane transports to carry food to the village have been without success. There are no transport planes available at Selfridge field near Detroit, the army base two ships of that type having been wrecked recently. Axiators also were doubtful that a safe landing could be made in the snow.

Grand Marais on Lake Superior, south of here, was reported in a predicament similar to that of Detour. The village has been snow-bound for several weeks and rations are running low.

Warmer weather yesterday caused considerable melting of the snow.

WOMAN WHO POURED GASOLINE INTO STOVE DIES OF BURNS

Miss Pearl Kyle Victim of Explosion That Blew Windows Out of House.

Miss Pearl Kyle, 1000A High street, died at city hospital yesterday of burns of the head and body suffered earlier in the day when she poured gasoline from a can on a fire in a stove. She had gone to the home of Gabriel Rossi, 1721 Franklin avenue, to do some housework.

The explosion blew out all the windows of the Rossi home.

Miss Kyle, who was 49 years old, wrapped herself in blankets and smothered the flames on her body. Neighbors, attracted by the explosion and her screams, called an ambulance.

LOWDEN WINS 2 MORE DISTRICTS IN MISSOURI

Delegates From Eighth and Fourteenth Are Instructed to Vote for Illinoisan at G. O. P. Convention.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. JEFFERSON CITY, March 13.—The Eighth Congressional District Republican convention yesterday endorsed the candidacy of former Gov. Lowden of Illinois for the Republican presidential nomination, and instructed the two district delegates to the Republican national convention to vote for him.

The convention adopted a resolution endorsing Vice President Dawes as its second choice, to be voted for if it became apparent that Lowden could not be nominated.

Attorney-General N. T. Gentry of Columbia and C. W. Journey of Booneville were elected delegates; Mrs. Lola Claiborne of Desatourville and C. G. Williams, Negro, of Jefferson City were elected as alternates.

Baker's "Fearless Administration."

Lowden sentiment was strong in the convention and no opposition was raised to the Lowden endorsement. The county delegates included a sprinkling of State employees, and numerous others attending the convention and were busy working for election of Gentry as a delegate.

The convention endorsed the "Fearless Administration" of Gov. Baker and his watchful care over the department under his supervision.

Other resolutions endorsed the administration of President Coolidge, urged Gov. Baker and former Gov. Arthur M. Hyde as delegates at large from Missouri to the National Republican convention; and favored the re-election of Dr. E. B. Clements of Macon as Republican National committeeman from Missouri and Miss Grace Semple Burlingham of St. Louis as Republican National committeewoman.

One of the onlookers from the gallery of the convention was Dr. Cortez Enloe, former political adviser of the Baker administration and former Director of Penal Institutions. He retired from the Penal Board in a reorganization last September that grew out of the penitentiary scandals. Enloe apparently was attending only as a spectator and had no part in the official activity.

Seventh District Delegates Are Uninstructed.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. SEDALLIA, Mo., March 13.—John Homer Bothwell of Sedalia and Benjamin Harrison of Springfield, the latter a member of the State Boxing Commission, yesterday were chosen at the Seventh District Republican congressional convention here delegates to the Republican national convention to be held in Kansas City. They were uninstructed. Bothwell at present is in Florida and Harrison made no public expression of his attitude toward the presidential aspirants.

With the election of the two delegates conceded early in the proceedings, an effort was made to send four delegates from the district comprising the counties of Greene, Benton, Hickory, Howard, Lafayette, Pettis, Polk and Saline.

This failed on a motion to suspend the rules and a vote was taken on the four nominated, the other two being Thomas H. Douglas of Polk County, and Paul Groeschel of Marshall. It stood, Harrison, 41; Bothwell, 40; Douglas, 30, and Groeschel, 23.

Alternates delegates chosen were Mrs. E. A. Thompson, Concordia, and John P. McCaslin of Hickory County.

The presidential elector was W. A. Dellarhde of Hickory County.

Resolutions were adopted endorsing the "economical administration" of President Coolidge and approving his course in Latin America. The State administration of Gov. C. A. Baker also was commended together with that of Lieutenant-Governor Bennett and other Republican State officials.

Bert G. Voorhees of St. Joseph, Elected G. O. P. Delegate.

By the Associated Press. ST. JOSEPH, Mo., March 13.—Bert G. Voorhees, former Republican State Committeeman, was elected a delegate to the Republican National Convention at Kansas City in an open primary here yesterday. He defeated Capt. Harry McPherson by a three to one vote. Voorhees will be one of the Fourth District delegates to the convention. Because of its large vote, St. Joseph is given one of the two district delegates. The other will be selected at the district convention in Maryville next week. Voorhees favors Charles E. Hughes for the presidential nomination, with Charles G. Dawes second choice.

Nodaway County G. O. P. Convention at Maryville.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. MARYVILLE, Mo., March 13.—Nodaway County Republicans in convention yesterday, "pointed with pride" to the accomplishments of both national and State administrations. They urged selection of William F. Phares of Maryville, former chairman of the Republican State Committee, as one of the two delegates from the Fourth Congressional District to the national convention in Kansas City. They expressed the hope that Congressman Charles L. Faust would remain as Representative from this district, and endorsed Dr. E. B. Clements as national committeeman and Mrs. Grace Burlingham as national committeewoman.

No mention was made of presidential candidates. Eighteen delegates were named to the district Republican convention to be held here March 20 and 10 to the State convention at St. Joseph. All were uninstructed.

Lowden Wins Fourteenth District Delegates.

WEST PLAINS, Mo., March 13.—Fourteenth District Republicans, in convention yesterday instructed for former Gov. Lowden of Illinois for the presidency and Carl Bloker of Caruthersville and Dr. Guy D. Mitchell of Taney County, were chosen as delegates to the national convention. Mrs. G. L. Pemberton of Charleston and Mrs. Daisy Stuart of Ava were elected alternates.

Lowden Supporters May Enter Him in Maryland Primary.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—Supporters of Frank O. Lowden are considering the advisability of entering him in the Republican presidential primaries in Maryland. If this should be done it would result in a test of strength between the former Illinois Governor and Herbert Hoover, whose name already has been filed.

Clarence F. Buck of Chicago, in charge of the Lowden for President movement, conferred here yesterday with various members of Congress, who lean toward Lowden, and also talked over the Maryland situation with some leaders from that State.

Buck said the former Illinois Governor intended to embark on no speech-making campaign, was spending no money to further his candidacy. In South Dakota he reported, where a preference has been expressed for Lowden, the manager in that State spent only $40 prior to last week's State convention.

COTTON CRASH BEFORE SENATE COMMITTEE

Houston Broker Denies Price Manipulation Caused 1927 Slump.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 12. — Leaders in the 1927 cotton slump controversy began making their Senate Subcommittee investigating the crash, William L. Clayton, head of the Houston (Tex.) firm of Anderson, Clayton & Co., coming forward voluntarily to make a flat denial of all charges of price manipulation or improper use of the New York futures market. Clayton discussed the policies that have governed the operations of his firm for 30 years. For the first time, after a preliminary wrangle as to procedure, the committee allowed a witness to complete his prepared statement virtually without interruption. Clayton asserting that his firm was not and had never been engaged in speculation.

Lays Slump to Federal Report. Senator Smith (Dem.), South Carolina, chairman of the subcommittee, drew a statement from the witness just at adjournment to which he attached great importance. Clayton said the price trend statement issued by the Department of Agriculture last September, had "precipitated" the slump. He was not ready to say, however, that the crash would not have come anyhow. There was no opportunity for complete examination by the committee on that point.

The Houston cotton merchant said charges of manipulation had been made against his firm and others by Arthur R. March, former head of the New York Cotton Exchange, and by Representative Rankin (Dem.), Mississippi, who is sitting in with the Senate Committee and has figured more or less as prosecutor of its inquiry. Counsel for March demanded that when Clayton finished, March be permitted to "refute" statements he had made as to what might have caused the cotton price decline.

Calls New York "Illogical" Port. Clayton denied specifically that 200,000 bales of cotton concentrated by his firm in New York storage had been assembled for the purpose of influencing prices.

On the contrary, he said, it was a necessary safeguard to trading in futures on the New York Exchange since the contracts of that body required New York delivery. Without such a safeguard, the witness said, dealers "in spot cotton" who "hedged" purchases of actual cotton with trading in future contracts might find themselves at the mercy of speculators.

The Houston dealer contended that the New York delivery contract was "wrong and archaic" and should be abolished to permit Southern delivery. New York, he said, was the most "illogical" port in the world in which to make cotton deliveries and because of this, New York futures represented an "inaccurate response" to the commercial values of cotton over a range of $3 to $4 owing to the freight charges on shipments to New York storage.

SOLD RADIOS ON CREDIT, BANKRUPT PLEA FILED

J. H. Hoelting of University City Listed $14,982 Liabilities and $7370 in Assets.

"It's just the case of a country boy coming to the city and over-reaching himself," explained an attorney for J. H. Hoelting, a radio dealer at 6504 Delmar boulevard, University City, who has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, listing his liabilities at $14,982 and his assets at $7370.

Hoelting, a young man, not long in the city, tried to make big profits by making many sales, and to make many sales by extending liberal credit to customers. The competition was stiff. His chief liability is $7173, representing 55 notes which he accepted from customers who bought radios on the part-payment plan. Hoelting indorsed the notes and discounted them at several loan companies to get ready cash. Now some of the notemakers have defaulted, and the loan companies are calling on Hoelting to make good. He says he can't—hence the bankruptcy petition.

Another major liability is $6258, owed for merchandise. Assets include $1000 stock in trade, $1610 due on open accounts, $4000 insurance and $535 in bills and promissory notes.

BRITISH METEOROLOGIST SAYS UPPER AIR IS HELIUM

Aircraft Cannot Navigate 100 Miles Above Earth, Sir William Napier Shaw Asserts.

LONDON, March 12.—One hundred miles above the surface of the earth the atmosphere consists almost wholly of helium gas, believes Sir William Napier Shaw, eminent meteorologist. If this conclusion is right it will never be possible, it is contended, for aircraft to navigate the upper atmosphere.

In a new "Manual of Meteorology," in which Sir Napier Shaw sets forth this view, he deals with many other matters bearing on atmospheric conditions. He maintains that as the light of auroras has been as high as 500 miles above the earth, gases of some kind must exist far out from this globe.

Comparatively low down comes the famous "heavy side" layer in the atmosphere, 30 to 50 miles up. It is this layer which reflects wireless waves and renders wireless signalling possible.

One point that emerges from Sir Napier's investigations is that meteorology thus far has afforded no means of foretelling the weather at the earth's surface far ahead, although he supports to some extent the theory that there is a cycle of 35 years in which the weather repeats itself.

PROCTOR SEEKS CUSTODY OF DAUGHTER FROM FORMER WIFE

Grandson of Soap Firm Founder Wants Child to Continue Medical Treatment.

NEW YORK, March 12.—Application for legal custody of his daughter, Patricia Marise Proctor, was made today by Frederick W. Proctor, a grandson of Harley T. Proctor, one of the founders of the Procter and Gamble Co., soap manufacturers.

Proctor asked for custody of the child in order that medical treatment to correct limb afflictions may be continued for the next eight or ten years. Mrs. Carter Leidy, his former wife, now living at Mamaroneck, N. Y., was named defendant. She obtained custody of the girl and their son Frederick William Jr., 6 years old in Paris in December, 1926. Mrs. Leidy was the former Marjorie Easton Woodson and was married to Proctor at Port Lauderdale, Fla., in February, 1921. Last June Proctor was married to Elizabeth Laing Fox.

DAM BILL AMENDMENT LOSES

Senate Rejects Ashurst's Plan to Distribute Waters.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—An amendment to the Swing-Johnson Boulder Canyon Dam bill proposed by Senator Ashurst (Dem.), Arizona, providing for the distribution of waters, was rejected today by the Senate Irrigation Committee. The committee turned down the amendment by a vote of 8 to 3, and by the same vote defeated another proposal by Senator Ashurst providing for appointment of a board of engineers to investigate the selection of a dam site. As a result of the committee's action, the Arizona Senator declared afterward that in his opinion "the Johnson-Swing bill is as dead as Hector." Senator Johnson (Rep.), California, however, was optimistic over the course taken by the committee and predicted final action on the bill within a few days.

WOODS SEE OPENING OF EXPOSITION FOR WOMEN'S CRAFTS

Representatives of 28 Nations Parade at First Night of National Show at Coliseum.

PAINTINGS AND QUILTS ATTRACT ATTENTION

Mayor Miller Makes Brief Talk—99 Exhibitors Occupy Booths on Main Floor of Building.

Almost everything of interest to women, from a portable kitchenette to the latest spring apparel, is on exhibit at the third annual Women's National Exposition, which opens at the Coliseum tonight. The attendance was estimated at 4000.

A parade of representatives of 28 nations in national costumes, headed by the drill team of the Daughters of America, officially opened the exposition. Mayor Miller, ex officio, presided at the exposition; Mrs. William Donovan, chairman of the Program Committee, and Mrs. H. C. McCallan, president of the Missouri Federation of Women's Clubs, made brief talks.

Scotch bagpipe players, a Filipino orchestra, and the drum corps of the De Soto Circle of the Daughters of Isabella, furnished entertainment.

Some Quilts Made by Men. The displays of 99 exhibitors occupy 136 booths on the main floor of the Coliseum. The exposition, although primarily for and by women, is not limited this year to exhibits of enterprises promoted or managed by women. There is a display of more than 200 paintings by Missouri artists, there is a booth showing vocational work of World War veterans, and even a few of the 500 hand-made quilts were made by men.

The international exhibits include a good will delegation of silk-doll dolls from the Japanese Government, each doll having a special wardrobe and complete accessories. There are also fine old linens from Ireland, carved ivory dolls from Switzerland, Italian carved marbles, and exquisitely set jewels, scarves, and hand-embroidered books from the professional women of Germany.

A model of the old-time horse stands next to the latest thing in street cars, which shows by a wall of green light the path of the current from trolley-wire to mill.

Movie Shows Phone Service. A miniature movie depicts scenes of the difficulties in furnishing perfect telephone service to the public. A huge electric map of the city traces the sight-seeing routes of buses. Fruits and vegetables grown in the lines of the Missouri-Pacific Railroad are on display. There is an Indian exhibit of basketware, in charge of a pair of Indian women, a "food and nutrition" booth of the Board of Education, and exhibits of the vocational work of schoolchildren and of blind women.

Cakes baked by St. Louis women, photographic works, maple sugars, dress patterns, dairy products and household appliances of every sort are a few of the other exhibits. The exposition will continue through Saturday and there will be special programs each afternoon and evening. Proceeds from the exhibition following the usual practice, will be devoted to educational scholarships.

HENRY FORD OPENS SCHOOL FOR BOYS AS EXPERIMENT

SUBURBAN, Mass., March 12.—Thirty boys, all around 15, are beginning a four years' course here which will teach them all the standard high school subjects, provide a complete trade school curriculum and include the advantages of a private boarding school. The pupils will be paid wages sufficient to cover all their living expenses and leave them some spending money.

The principal of the school is Russell N. Hyde of Brookline, Mass., formerly in charge of the school at the Ford plant in Somerville. Mrs. Ernest Putnam is counselor for the boys.

This experiment has been undertaken by Henry Ford for the benefit of State wards, selected with the assistance of the Massachusetts Department of Public Welfare. The scholars, assembled during the past week, are just beginning to get down to the routine of regular classes. They will live here all the year and at the end of the four years, if they wish, they may continue their technical education at the Ford plant in Detroit with the prospect of subsequently joining the Ford organization.

The new school is situated on the Wayville Inn property. The old house, long unused, will be used as a place of instruction and work.

In addition to taking regular high school subjects, the students will be taught to grow things and make things. The purpose of the wages is not only to give the boys independence, but also to teach them the importance of thrift.

LA PORTE, Ind., March 12.—Three small boys were drowned last night when they attempted to cross the ice over Clear Lake. Three of their companions scrambled to safety.

The drowned were Harold Burg, 8 years old; Ralph Mandeville, 8, and his brother, George, 6.

According to the three boys who escaped, the six started to cross the lake from the downtown district to Fox Park. When they neared the center of the lake, the ice gave way. The Burg boy was the first to disappear, followed by the Mandeville brothers, the survivors said.

The other three boys fled to their homes and did not mention the drownings to their parents. Finally the Herald-Argus sent out a story of the drowning over the radio, the Bell boy heard and then told his parents and the police about the accident.

The three bodies were recovered.

FOCH HEARS EX-WIFE TELL OF LOSING HIM

Symphony Conductor's Presence Surprise at Hearing Over Child's Custody.

NEW YORK, March 13.—Dirk Foch, the Dutch Symphony Orchestra conductor, entered Supreme Justice Levy's court yesterday with a broad smile and wearing a wing collar, creating almost as big a surprise as if Justice Levy had risen suddenly and whistled Haydn's "Surprise Symphony."

Last week, while a trial was going on to determine whether he or his divorced wife, Mrs. Consuela Flowermont Foch, should have custody of their daughter, Nina, almost 4 years old, Foch's whereabouts were such a mystery even to his own attorneys that Charles E. Le Barbier, Mrs. Foch's lawyer, offered a reward of $10,000 to anyone who could find him. Le Barbier tagged him as a "floater."

A full courtroom was listening to Mrs. Foch testify when she hesitated, stared toward the door, and became speechless, while her former spouse stepped up to sit among his counsel. She smiled. He looked at her a moment and then searched the room for Nina, who was not there. The child usually is in court, playing with her nurse, but yesterday she stayed home with a cold. Her father has not seen her since last Dec. 28, when he and a detective tried to take her.

The trial, which has brought out a novel method of one woman's getting a husband away from another woman, if Mrs. Foch's account is true, developed more novelities yesterday. Nell H. Vandewater of Foch's counsel piled Mrs. Foch with questions on Christian Science and she answered as if she were in a Sunday school.

Mrs. Foch again accused Mrs. Consuela Simonds, now the wife of Foch, of breaking up her home by pretending to use Christian Science to heal her troubles with Foch, the "healing" process ending with a divorce, and Foch's marrying Mrs. Simonds a few weeks later.

Mrs. Foch said that, since her home was broken up, she had been told by other Christian Scientists that Mrs. Simonds was not a true teacher of the faith. She said she had followed Mrs. Simonds' teaching faithfully.

Mrs. Foch said she did not smoke, but had posed for photographs to be used in cigarette advertisements. She is beautiful and statuesque. She said also she had posed for advertisements of many other articles.

While Who Eloped Gets Divorced. Mrs. Clara Wamser, 3507 South Spring avenue, who eloped three years ago with Fred Wamser, then a drummer at "Belvedere," Joe's roadhouse, on Olive Street road, today obtained a divorce, with restoration of her maiden name, Clara Junker. She charged general indelicacy. Mrs. Wamser, who was 17 at the time of her marriage, testified her husband quit work soon after the marriage. They separated last September.

SMALLER RADIO STATIONS WIN FIGHT IN HOUSE

Amended Measure Allocating Waves and Power to States on Basis of Population Adopted.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 12.—The Senate must speedily iron out its differences with the House on the bill passed yesterday by the latter body to extend the existence of the Federal Radio Commission for another year or else the commission will become extinct. The commission's activities expire by law Thursday. Unless the conferees can obtain adoption by the Senate of the House amendments and the presidential signature can be obtained by Wednesday, the regulation of the radio broadcasting network will revert back to Secretary Hoover. However, there is another possibility—emergency legislation to temporarily sustain the commission. The commission's activities expire by law Thursday. Unless the conferees can obtain adoption by the Senate of the House amendments and the presidential signature can be obtained by Wednesday, the regulation of the radio broadcasting network will revert back to Secretary Hoover. However, there is another possibility—emergency legislation to temporarily sustain the commission.

Amendment Approved 236 to 133. Debated for two days, the amendment finally was approved 236 to 133, with a division of the Representatives along rural and urban lines without regard to parties. Those from country districts supported the proposal.

The new distribution plan, sponsored by Representative Davis (Dem.) of Tennessee, found its firmest support among the Southerners, for that section is due to benefit most from the re-allocation of stations. The Southerners contended that radio stations were concentrated in the East and North, particularly in New York City. Their arguments also were based on allegations that a "radio monopoly" controlled the large city stations.

Opponents of the amendment took the view that the large cities could command the best radio entertainers and talent and that the proposed change would wreck the progress of radio.

Dill Favors House Proposal. The action of the House in specifying that wave lengths and power be allocated among the states according to population, was praised in the Senate today by Senator Dill (Dem.), Washington.

who expressed doubt, however, that such a method would be practicable as a means of guaranteeing equality of service over the country. Dill requested that the Senate seek a conference with a House committee, for the purpose of reconciling differences and agreeing on a change in the present system. This course was decided upon. The Washington Senator declared that the Radio Commission had ignored the "equitable distribution" feature of the present law, in allotting a total of 4,415,000 watts of power to the Radio Corporation of America, which, he said, was seven times more than all the other power being used. He further declared that 13 sta-

RE-CAPTURE THE STURDY DIGESTION OF CHILDHOOD

How You can Safely Eat whatever You Fancy

Do you remember the school days long ago when your appetite was good and you could "eat anything?" Perhaps you yearn for a digestion like that now? You can have it, and easily, too! Most digestive trouble is due to excess stomach acid which ferments the food and causes painful gases to dilate your stomach. Obviously you can only end indigestion and stomach pain by ridding yourself of this root cause, acidity.

The quickest, surest and safest way to do this is to take a little "Pape's Diapepsin" after eating or when pain is felt. This brings prompt relief because it instantly neutralizes the excess acid in your stomach and then soothes, heals and strengthens the acid-weakened tissues.

"Pape's Diapepsin" is of such great value in the treatment of digestive troubles that millions everywhere use and recommend it. Don't delay—get a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diapepsin" from your druggist today. It will give you instant relief, so that instead of suffering after each meal you will always enjoy healthy, carefree digestion.

Why be Fat?

When so many people, all about you, know an easy, pleasant way to reduce.

In every circle you enter now, slenderness prevails. Excess fat is the enemy of New health and vitality has come to this reduction. Ask anybody who has found the way, and he or she will tell you to adopt it.

This change has not been brought about by abnormal exercise or diet, but moderation helps. Research men discovered, some two decades ago, a cause of excess fat. It lies in a fault in metabolism which calls for an extra supply of factors.

The help they suggested was embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. Now people have used them for 20 years—and fear has been abolished.

Users of Marmola take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. Then gain at the same time new vitality and health. And they know exactly why.

Go try Marmola. Do not suffer any longer the blights of over-weight. And not think that reduction means starvation.
Try what people have for 20 years been using with such results. You owe that to all who love you.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box.
If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

"Smooth Rose-petal Skin always attracts"

says Allan Dwan, director for FIRST NATIONAL not leave my skin more wonderfully smooth than Lux Toilet Soap does—it's delightful."

kind of rose-petal smooth skin which can pass the test of the close-up is the kind of beauty that gets the American public

RE-CAPTURE THE STURDY DIGESTION OF CHILDHOOD

How You can Safely Eat whatever You Fancy

Do you remember the school days long ago when your appetite was good and you could "eat anything"? Perhaps you yearn for a digestion like that now! You can have it, and easily, too! Most digestive trouble is due to excess stomach acid which ferments the food and causes painful gases to dilate your stomach. Obviously you can only end indigestion and stomach pain by ridding yourself of this root cause, acidity.

The quickest, surest and safest way to do this is to take a little "Pape's Diaprepin" after eating or when pain is felt. This brings prompt relief because it instantly neutralizes the excess acid in your stomach and then soothes, heals and strengthens the acid-weakened tissues.

"Pape's Diaprepin" is of such great value in the treatment of digestive troubles that millions everywhere use and recommend it. Don't delay—get a 60-cent package of "Pape's Diaprepin" from your druggist today. It will give you instant relief, so that instead of suffering after each meal you will always enjoy healthy, carefree digestion.

Why be Fat?

When so many people, all about you, know an easy, pleasant way to reduce.

In every circle you enter now, slenderness prevails. Excess fat is the exception. New health and vitality has come with this reduction. Ask anybody who has found the way, and he or she will urge you to adopt it.

This change has not been brought about by abnormal exercise or diet, though moderation helps. Research men discovered, some two decades ago, a cause of excess fat. It lies in a fault in nutrition which calls for an extra supply of some factors.

The help they suggested was embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. Now people have used them for 20 years—millions of boxes of them. And everyone knows people who can tell them what this method does.

At one time people feared Marmola—the results were so amazing. Now every box contains the formula, also all scientific reasons for the good results. And fear has been abolished.

Users of Marmola take four tablets daily until weight comes down to normal. They gain at the same time new vitality and health. And they know exactly why.

Go try Marmola. Do not suffer any longer the blights of over-weight. And do not think that reduction means starvation. Try what people have for 20 years been using with such results. You owe that to all who love you.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

'PURITY' JONES VICTIM FILES IN BANKRUPTCY

Robert F. Lemen Lists $198,932 Liabilities and Assets of $511.

Robert Ford Lemen of East St. Louis, one of several laundry owners in this vicinity who were ruined financially through the note manipulations of "Purity" Jones, today filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy, listing liabilities of $198,932 and assets of $511.

Following the $1,300,000 crash in January, 1927, of the David Jones Co., a laundry machinery and supply business headed by "Purity" Jones, the latter was indicted for using the mails to defraud. Lemen, president of the Lemen Laundry at 1020 Gaty avenue, East St. Louis, estimated the total amount of notes in his name which Jones had sold to banks, finance companies and individuals was $240,000. Lemen said he owed the Jones Co. part of that amount for machinery and supplies purchased, but, he alleged, the balance represented duplicate notes.

Says Jones Sold Old Notes. At intervals Jones would ask Lemen for new notes. Lemen would deliver the new notes and Jones would promise to destroy the old ones. Lemen said he later discovered Jones saved the old notes and sold them, together with the new ones, thus multiplying Lemen's liabilities.

Creditors listed in Lemen's bankruptcy petition are: Phillips Kimball, 4309 Olive street, as trustee for the National Bank of Commerce, Mississippi Valley Trust Co., Missouri Investment Corp., Boatmen's National Bank, Commercial Credit Co. of St. Louis, Merchants' and Manufacturers' Securities Co. of Chicago, Federal Purchasing Corp., Daw Finance Corp.—$150,000.

Remedial System of Loaning, $21,000; Jefferson Bank, $525; Orville Livingstone, as trustee for the bankrupt David Jones Co., $1728; Manufacturers' Finance Co. of Chicago, $2747; William Bosworth, 3614 Humphrey street, $5000; Ferd Guenther, 3612 Humphrey street, $3000.

Mostly Notes Jones Sold. The $2747 item is an account assigned to Manufacturers' Finance Co. The other items represent notes which Lemen gave to Jones, who sold them to the present holders.

The $150,000 owed to the group for which Kimball is trustee has been reduced to a judgment in the East St. Louis City Court. Kimball, a professional reorganizer from New York, represented creditors in reorganizing the Lemen laundry and four St. Louis laundries ruined by Jones' operations.

The only liabilities listed by Lemen are the notes and the one account. The only assets are $511 in cash and household goods.

TWO CONVICTS ARE PAROLED

Penal Board Questions Guilt of Man Convicted of Stealing Auto. Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 12.—Paroles were granted today by Gov. Baker to Henry Ashford of Lafayette County, who has served nine months of a two-year sentence for an offense against a girl, and Herbert F. Adams of Jasper County, who has served four years and nine months of a 15-year sentence for stealing an automobile.

The State Penal Board apparently differed with the jury and Court that found Amos guilty of stealing an automobile, as, in its recommendation to the Governor, the board said there was some question of whether Amos was guilty. The board stated it was Amos' first offense; that he had a good prison record and that, during the last two years, he had been outside the penitentiary most of the time as a trusty. In Ashford's case, the board said it was his first offense, and that he had been held in jail for 10 months before being tried.

will have to be approved by the Senate.

Davis said, during the debate over his amendment, that of the five broadcasting zones into which the country is divided the first zone, including New York, New England and other North Atlantic States with a population of about 25,000,000 has a power allotment of 202,400 watts distributed among 95 stations. He said that the South, or third zone, with 25,000,000 population, had 88 stations and 45,670 watts.

He asserted that New York received the "lion's share" of the power of the country while the South and other sections had expressed their interest in the industry by making "two times as many applications for stations as New York." He also declared that the "large stations operated by the radio monopoly" had the best channels of the air and interfered with the small stations' programs.

Arguments For and Against Plan. Chairman White of the Merchant Marine Committee, which handled the legislation, together with Davis, bore the brunt of the advocacy of the proposal. White argued that the existing system meant broadcasting service for one section alone and also stressed that the concentration of the power in the East placed "a major share of the nation's facilities in the hands of the monopoly."

Braid Brings Sophistication in a Novel Way

Sleek and svelte as a young Parisienne is this smart frock fashioned of flat crepe in navy. White Georgette that wants to be a collar but naively ripples into a shoulder ruffle is a strikingly different note. Contrasting novelty braid conspires with pin tucking for individuality. And the skirt ventures into tiny pleats to complete the touch of femininity.

A Collar That Challenges Interest

Black Junella, superbly tailored, brings distinction to this exquisite wrap. Soft, cocoa ermine is proudly upstanding in a clever interpretation of the newer collar mode. Imported buttons, large and knobby, in which are carved amusing designs, add chic to the smart tie cuffs. Satin inlaid in a flaring geometric design establishes a new fashion fact.

EX-CONVICT SOUGHT; KILLED TWO BY AUTO

Sylvester D. Robinson Accused of Homicide in Coroner's Verdict.

Police today had been unsuccessful in the search for Sylvester D.
Robinson, former convict released from prison, Jan. 17, who was named yesterday in a Coroner's verdict of homicide as the intoxicated driver of a rented automobile that killed a man and fatally injured a woman on Lindell boulevard at Vandeventer avenue Friday night and then sped away.

Robinson is a younger brother of "Chippy" Robinson, former Egan gangster, who is serving a 25-year term at Atlanta for robbery of the mails.

A woman companion in the automobile at the time of the accident testified he had been drinking and said she attempted to persuade him to let her drive.

Sidener Urged Clemency.
Court records show that Sylvester Robinson pleaded guilty early in 1926 to a $70 holdup and was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. He asserted he was intoxicated when he committed the robbery. Later this plea was used in his attempt to obtain a parole.

His plea for clemency was supported by Circuit Attorney Sidener and William Geist, Sidener's chief clerk.

Later, on Sidener's recommendation, he was allowed to change his plea to attempted robbery. He was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary and entered prison
April 20, 1926.

Those killed by the automobile were Simon A. Meyer, a salesman, of 5748 Kingsbury avenue, and Mrs.
Julia Mann, 6038 Washington avenue. Witnesses at the inquest testified they were struck by a Chevrolet coupe speeding 35 or 40 miles an hour west on Lindell.

Robinson, who was a taxicab chauffeur and also went under the name Daniel O'Neill, had rented the coupe.

Sidener, in his statement to Circuit Judge Frey in April 1926, asking clemency for Robinson, pointed out "the defendant had been drinking and was under the influence of liquor at the time of the commission of the offense." Sidener also said he did not know Robinson was to enter a plea of guilty and at the time it was entered he had in his possession a letter from the prosecuting witness recommending clemency. Robinson served his term, being released after 21 months, under the merit system.

TERM FOR TOMS MURDER

Welby Hunt, His Accomplice, to Hear Penalty Today for Killing of Druggist.

By the Associated Press.
LOS ANGELES, March 12.—A life sentence for the murder of C.
Ivy Toms, druggist, yesterday was passed on William Edward Hickman, already under death sentence for the slaying of Marian Parker, 12-year-old Los Angeles girl.

Welby Hunt, Hickman's 17-year-old accomplice in the slaying of Toms, shot to death when the two youths staged a holdup in his drug store, will be sentenced today.

Hunt, being under the legal age for confinement in a penitentiary, will be held in a reformatory for a time. Later he will be sentenced and sent to San Quentin prison.

County jail officials said Hickman probably would be removed to the prison Friday. The death sentence, which Hickman received for the Parker crime, will send him to the gallows April 27, unless a legal stay is obtained in the meantime.

FOR SIMPLER INCOME TAX ACT Committee Seeks Also Means to Check Evasion of Law.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, March 12.—Investigation of a proposal to substitute a single scale of graduated income tax rates for the present complicated system of normal and surtax income scales was ordered today by the joint Congressional committee on Taxation.

The committee in a report to Congress also announced it had under investigation ways of checking evasion of tax payments through gifts and trusts and of evasions by foreign corporations with branches in this country. It was reported that one foreign corporation doing a business of more than $200,000,000 annually in this country had avoided payment of practically all taxes here by shifting the profits of the American branch to the parent corporation.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
BLYTHEVILLE, Ark., March 12.— Overpowering their jailer by knocking him in the head with an empty milk bottle, Willie White and Ed Martin, alleged highway robbers, and Harry Casey, alleged check forger, escaped from the Mississippi County jail here last night. They forced another prisoner, J. W. Flowers, to go with them, but he surrendered 45 minutes later.

R. S. Hill, a trustee, returned from an errand in town in time to prevent any more prisoners from getting away. He found the jailer, Ed McClen, unconscious. The men had grabbed the keys. It is reported the three men crossed into Mis-

CALLS TWO ROADS 'POACHERS' UPON TERMINAL FIELD

Henry Miller Thinks Alton & Southern and Manufacturers' Lines Want to Be Bought Up.

IMPUGNS MOTIVES AS TO FREE BRIDGE
"Their Only Purpose Is to Take Advantage of the City and The Railroads," He Declares.

"Poachers, whose only purpose is to take advantage of the city and the railroads," were the words used by Henry Miller, president of the Terminal Railroad Association, at a luncheon meeting yesterday of the St. Louis Traffic Club at the Chamber of Commerce in referring to certain railroads that are seeking to enter St. Louis in competition with the Terminal Co. Amplifying his remarks after the meeting, President Miller told a Post-Dispatch reporter in an interview that, in using the word "poachers," he referred to the Alton & Southern Railroad and the Manufacturers' Railway, both of which are preparing to use the Municipal Bridge in competition with the Terminal Company's bridge rates.

"As a matter of fact," said President Miller in the interview, "we do not believe those railroads are so much interested in using the Municipal Bridge as a means of serving the shippers of St. Louis as they are in getting themselves brought up at handsome prices."

"Both have been for sale the Alton & Southern for $5,000,000, although the Interstate Commerce Commission gave it a value of a little more than $1,000,000, and $4,000,000 was a price that would have been paid for the Manufacturers' Railway. But neither road is for sale just now, so I understand. As we understand the situation, both roads now are trying to maneuver themselves into a position to force the hand of the Terminal as a matter of eliminating competition. This sort of thing isn't fair to the shipper, who in the end must pay the toll."

The Alton & Southern, a single-track road in Illinois, parallels the Terminal company's facilities for a short distance across the river. The Manufacturers' Railway is controlled by the Bush interests and has only a few miles of tracks along the river on this side.

"There is no need for the service of the Alton & Southern on the other side of the river," said President Miller, "because its operation is only a duplication of expense for which the shipper ultimately pays. The Manufacturers' Railway is quite prosperous on this side. It ought to be, charging as it does $7 a car for handling freight a distance of 2500 feet, while the Terminal company charges $1.80 a car for longer distances in the city. In some instances eight miles."

"The Terminal company rate for handling coal is the same, $1.80 a car. The Manufacturers' Railway charges a little more than $11 a car and over shorter distances than we haul. This is the same company for which the City of St. Louis is to build an approach to the Municipal Bridge so that this carrier can compete with the Terminal company."

Questions Tolls on Free Bridge.
The city will find this arrangement will not work out satisfactorily to the shipper, President Miller says, and he looks for trouble when the time comes to repeal the ordinance that prohibits a transportation charge over the Municipal Bridge.

Speaking at the Traffic Club in this connection, President Miller said the Terminal company welcomes to St. Louis railroads that would increase the city's transportation facilities. He explained later that he referred to the Chicago & Northwestern, the Santa Fe and the Chicago & Eastern Illinois. The latter road has been coming into St. Louis for many years, but not as a member of the Terminal. It has an application now pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission to join the Terminal Association. The Santa Fe has purchased terminal facilities in St. Louis, President Miller said, and eventually will enter the city through the Terminal facilities.

The Chicago & Northwestern likewise is approaching the city, said President Miller. It has a connection at Mount Olive with the Litchfield & Madison which carries its freight to the Terminal company's tracks in East St. Louis.

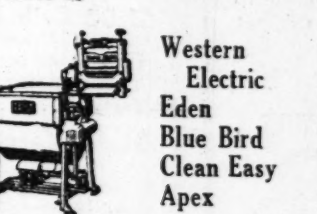

In his address President Miller took exception to statements that the Terminal company requires from 24 to 100 hours to get cars across the river, replying with the February report which shows an average time per car of 10 hours and 28 minutes. Erroneous reports like these, he said, hurt the city. All traffic, he said, is moved systematically and at regular intervals, and never have the association's facilities been taxed to the limit.

He said, moreover, that increases in both volume of business and efficiency of operation have made possible a reduction of service charges and if the present volume is maintained, further reductions will follow in the near future. The directors of the Terminal Railroad Association were also guests of the Traffic Club at the luncheon and there was one other speaker, A. D. Clift, senior vice president of the Illinois Central Railroad and president of the Chicago Traffic Club, who brought greetings from that organization.

JUDGE HODGDON URGES

MORE HIGH SCHOOLS

Candidate for Governorship Explains Amendment to Obtain Funds.

Provision of high school facilities for children throughout Missouri is the aim of a constitutional amendment sponsored by Probate Judge Hodgdon of St. Louis County, which he explained at a meeting of the Public School Patrons' Alliance last night at the Board of Education offices. He is a candidate for the governorship nomination for the governorship.

Petitions to put the amendment on the ballot by the initiative are being circulated under direction of Judge Hodgdon. The amendment, he explained, would obviate the makeshift practice in many school districts, where the school maintenance tax rate is at its maximum of voting a "building" tax to be devoted to high school costs; it would provide for adequate rates of taxation and eliminate the necessity of elections every four years to set the rates, thereby saving the State $500,000 annually; it would provide a new source of revenue for high school support through a tax of 15 cents on the $100 on secured debts, such as mortgage notes, bonds and debentures.

Due to a law enacted in 1917, the Judge said, which provides for every child to attend high school at the expense of his home district, even where the school is elsewhere, 85 per cent of Missouri grade school graduates enter high school.

"Young men and women," he continued, "cannot hope to qualify themselves for any profession without first having obtained a high school education. Practically every bank, railroad or other large employer gives preference to those who have high school diplomas."

"There is one county in Missouri which has no high schools. Our constitution was adopted before we had high schools generally and the revenue was intended only to provide for elementary schools. We are trying to overcome this situation by this amendment, which will authorize voting of necessary revenues for high schools, but will not increase the taxes. It will also authorize the consolidation of two or more districts for high school purposes only, which will

DRINK WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTH

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Pains or Bladder Is Irritated

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaker; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush out the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

OHIO MEN DEBATE HOOVER CAMPAIGN ON HOUSE FLOOR

Coolidge, in Interest of Fair Play, Should Ask Secretary to Quit, Representative Asserts.

U. S. FUNDS USED IN CANDIDACY, HE SAYS

Theodore Burton Defends Head of Commerce Department From Charges by Charles Brand.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—The presidential aspirations of Herbert Hoover were debated in the House today by two Ohio Republicans before the largest House audience since Congress convened. Charles Brand, a Willis supporter in the coming State primaries, demanded the resignation of the Commerce Secretary on the ground that he was financing his presidential candidacy in part out of the Federal Treasury.

Answering this charge, Theodore Burton declared the address of his colleague contained "all the material, slanderous or otherwise, collected by snoopers who have scoured the world to find something in Hoover's record."

The debate, advertised for more than a week, drew to the floor practically all the Democratic members, who showed their displeasure over the battle waged in the ranks of their political foes. Brand declared he was "reliably informed" the Commerce Department was working at only 50 per cent efficiency, that its office throughout the country were being used to boost Hoover's campaign and that the Secretary otherwise was using his office to promote his private ambitions.

In return, Burton accused Brand of stating "half truths" and of making erroneous statements. "Any man who has contributed such splendid achievements to the welfare of the United States as has Secretary Hoover should be free from such an attack," he said.

Brand demanded the resignation of Hoover from the Cabinet "in the interest of economy and in the interests of fair play in politics." "We have seen an ex-city political boss picked up in Ohio, and made Assistant Secretary of Commerce after Mr. Hoover began to run for the presidency," Brand said. "We have seen this man occupying this position and drawing the salary, running Mr. Hoover's campaign in Ohio; spending out of his time there and the other half down in Washington running Mr. Hoover's national campaign."

"Now, under these circumstances the campaign of Mr. Hoover for President is being paid to a very large extent out of the Treasury of the United States and I ask the President of the United States to ask for the resignation of Herbert Hoover as Secretary of Commerce in the interest of economy and in the interests of fair play in politics."

Aid for Dawes and Lowden.—The possibility of Vice President Dawes or Frank O. Lowden profiting as presidential candidates from the political feud in Ohio between Willis and Hoover was suggested by Brand.

In his prepared speech, in which he predicted Hoover would be routed in the April 24 election, Representative Brand said the opposition to Senator Willis, "especially the wets, flocked to Hoover as soon as he came to Ohio as a candidate."

"Those who are opposed to Senator Willis and are not satisfied with Secretary Hoover," he went on, "are looking around and beginning to see that the nomination of Mr. Dawes or Mr. Lowden might be achieved by voting for Senator Willis and would surely be defeated by voting for Secretary Hoover."

Says Willis Is Strong.—"Thus the friends of Vice President Dawes and the friends of ex-Gov. Lowden are adding themselves to the strength of Senator Willis, and Senator Willis has great strength in Ohio."

Brand attacked Hoover largely along the same lines Senator Willis pursued in a campaign speech at Wellston, O. The Representative questioned the commerce secretary's Republicanism, asserting he was a follower of Woodrow Wilson, particularly on the League of Nations issue, and did not stand foursquare with the Republican party on the tariff.

The Ohioan also made extensive reference to Hoover's residence abroad, and charged that he not only held down the price of farm products during the war as Food Administrator, but was an active enemy of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill.

"If Hoover is elected president," Brand asserted, "agriculture is doomed to eight more years of misery."

"I know he has been against the McNary-Haugen bill and he has advised against it, my opinion he has exerted more against it than any public official."

"A few captives of industry, Mr. Hoover for his many are obstructing any aid for agriculture which drives the farmers into city in competition with the labor, and thus labor may have gained in the last 25 years."

Replying specifically to accusation that Hoover was sympathetic with the McNary-Haugen bill as having been Commerce Secretary in 1925, as follows: "Doubts Hoover's Enthusiasm.—'Although some may have suggested my name as President as Secretary of Commerce, I am inclined to doubt Hoover's enthusiasm.'"

OHIO MEN DEBATE
HOOVER CAMPAIGN
ON HOUSE FLOORCoolidge, in Interest of Fair Play, Should Ask Secretary to Quit, Representative Asserts.U. S. FUNDS USED IN CANDIDACY, HE SAYSTheodore Burton Defends Head of Commerce Department From Charges
by Charles Brand.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 13.—The presidential aspirations of Herbert Hoover were debated in the House today by two Ohio Republicans before the largest House audience since Congress convened.

Charles Brand, a Willis supporter in the coming State primaries, demanded the resignation of the Commerce Secretary on the ground that he was financing his presidential candidacy in part out of the Federal Treasury.

Answering his charge, Theodore Burton declared the address of his colleague contained "all the material, slanderous or otherwise, collected by snoopers who have scoured the world to find something in Hoover's record."

Democrats Pleased at Row. The debate, advertised for more than a week, drew to the floor practically all the Democratic members who showed their pleasure over the battle waging in the ranks of their political foe.

Brand declared he was "reliably informed" the Commerce Department was working at only one-half efficiency, that its office was being used to boost Hoover's campaign and that the Secretary otherwise was using his office to promote private interests.

In return, Burton accused Brand of stating "half truths" and of making erroneous statements. "Any man who has contributed to his splendid achievements in the wellbeing of the United States as has Secretary Hoover should be free from such an attack," he said.

Brand demanded the resignation of Hoover from the House in the interest of economy and in the interests of fair play in politics. "We have seen an ex-citizenship boss picked up in Ohio, and made the Assistant Secretary of Commerce after Mr. Hoover began to run for the presidency," Brand said. "We have seen this man occupying this position and drawing the salary, running Mr. Hoover's campaign in Ohio, spending half of his time there and the other half down in Washington running Mr. Hoover's national campaign."

Now, under these circumstances the campaign of Mr. Hoover for President is being paid for to a very large extent out of the Treasury of the United States and ask the President of the United States to ask for the resignation of Herbert Hoover as Secretary of Commerce in the interest of economy and in the interests of fair play in politics."

The possibility of Vice President Dawes' resignation was being discussed as a presidential candidate from the political feud in Ohio between Willis and Hoover was suggested by Brand.

In his prepared speech, in which he predicted Hoover would be routed in the April 24 voting, Representative Brand said the opposition to Senator Willis, "especially the wets, flocked to Hoover as soon as he came to Ohio as a candidate."

Those who are opposed to Senator Willis and are not satisfied with Secretary Hoover," he went on, "are looking around and beginning to see that the nomination of Mr. Dawes or Mr. Lowden might be achieved by voting for Senator Willis and would surely be defeated by voting for Secretary Hoover."

Says Willis Is Strong. Thus the friends of Vice President Dawes and the friends of ex-Gov. Lowden are adding themselves to the strength of Senator Willis, and Senator Willis has great strength in Ohio."

Brand attacked Hoover largely along the same lines Senator Willis pursued in a campaign speech at Wellington, O. The Representative questioned the commerce secretary's Republicanism, asserting he was a follower of Woodrow Wilson, particularly on the League of Nations issue, and did not stand four-square with the Republican party on the tariff.

The Ohioan also made extensive reference to Hoover's residence abroad, and charged that he not only held down the space of fact products during the war as Food Administrator, but was an active enemy of the McNary-Haugen farm bill.

If "Hoover is elected president," Brand asserted, "agriculture will be doomed to eight more years of misery."

"I know he has been against the McNary-Haugen bill and I know he has advised against it, and it is my opinion he has exerted himself more against it than any other public official."

A few captains of industry with Mr. Hoover as their major-general are obstructing any actual relief for agriculture which, in turn, drives the farmers into town and city in competition with factory labor, and this labor may lose all it has gained in the last 25 years."

Replying specifically to Brand's accusation that Hoover was not in President as Secretary of Agriculture, Burton said in January, 1925, as follows:

Doubts Hoover's Eligibility. "Although some of my friends have suggested my name to the President as Secretary of Agriculture, I am inclined to go to the President and urge your appointment."

11 INDUSTRIES BROUGHT TO ST. LOUIS IN FEBRUARY; 10 OLD CONCERNS EXPAND

Newly Acquired Firms Represent Eight Different Lines of Business; Employment for 492 More Persons.

Indicative of St. Louis' position as a diversified industrial center is the fact that the 11 new industries which located in this city during February represent eight different lines of business. In addition to the industrial acquisitions, the expansion of 10 existing industries is noted in the monthly report of the Industrial Bureau made public today by George C. Smith, director of the bureau.

An additional industrial investment of $1,999,500 is represented by these new industries and expansions, the report says, and 492 additional workers will be required. Construction of 184,900 square feet of factory or warehouse space will be necessitated by the new firms, and an additional 86,800 square feet of space already constructed will be occupied. The most important industrial announcement of the month, Smith points out, was acquisition of the $1,000,000 Mid-West Rubber Reclaiming Co., a subsidiary of the Akron Rubber Reclaiming Co.

Traffic Bureau Statement. Included in the monthly report is a statement prepared by the Traffic Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce of freight tonnages during 1927 for motor trucks and railroads, showing an increase of 1.55 per cent in volume of freight.

"It is significant that the year shows substantial increases over 1926 in both received and forward freight at St. Louis, during a year when railroads show a shrinkage in tonnage of 2.9 per cent for the country as a whole," the report sets forth. "Even more significant is the larger increase in volume of business handled in and out of St. Louis by north and south lines, indicating that the commercial intercourse of the country is developing rapidly between the north and south, and further evidencing the strategic position St. Louis occupies as an all-direction gateway."

Growth of One Month. Aside from the Mid-West Rubber Reclaiming Co., new industries and expansions listed for the month of February are:

R. P. Goodrich Rubber Co. plans for immediate erection of a $125,000 branch warehouse and office at Chouteau and Theresa avenues. Of brick construction, the building will contain two stories and basement.

Colonial Steel Co. of Pittsburgh, Pa., with St. Louis office, has purchased a site at 71-73 Cass avenue for erection of a $25,000 warehouse.

Kaysing Iron Works, 2325 Montgomery street, is erecting a new steel shop containing 29,000 square feet, necessitating employment of 80 additional persons.

Forest City Manufacturing Co., 1631 Washington avenue, has added 900 feet to its present dress factory.

E. P. Poulson Millinery Co., a new concern occupying 2500 square feet of floor space at 1107 Washington avenue, and employing 25 persons.

Schoenholz Hat Frame Co., 1107 Washington avenue, has increased its floor space from 2500 to 5000 square feet, creating jobs for 25 additional employees.

Davidson Electric Manufacturing Co., 819 Washington avenue, a new concern engaged in manufacture of ladies' dresses.

Lally Lacy Frocks, Inc., 507 North Broadway, recently incorporated for manufacture of ladies' dresses.

Paper Company Expands. Orchard Paper Co., 1113 South Twelfth street, has added machinery for manufacture of paper bags, entailing an additional investment of $15,000, and creating work for five persons.

Syrex Products, Inc., 118 Fine street, a new $100,000 corporation for manufacture of beverages.

Republic Engraving and Designing Co. of Chicago has established a St. Louis branch in the Commercial Building, occupying 400 square feet.

800 square feet for manufacture of hand-engraved rubber stamps. Midwest Waste and Wipers Co. moved to new location at Theresa avenue and Papin street, increasing its floor space from 10,000 to 14,000 square feet and adding four employees.

Roxy Millinery Co., 704 Washington avenue, a new concern organized for manufacture of popular-priced millinery, occupying 5000 square feet of floor space and employing 20 persons.

Diamond Specialty Manufacturing Co., 3506 South Broadway, a new corporation for manufacture of machinery for attaching heels to shoes and slippers.

Gast Bank Note Co., 2036 Morgan street, erecting a new manufacturing plant of 30,000 square feet at 4175 Chippewa street, representing a capital increase of $50,000.

Tucker-Shapiro Upholstering Co., moved from 3005 Locust street to larger quarters at 2203 Locust street, increasing its floor space from 9000 to 17,000 square feet and its employees from 20 to 40.

Missouri-Illinois Stores Co. (Piggy-Wiggy), 2538 Chouteau avenue, adding 24,000 square feet to its warehouse. The improvement represents an investment of $40,000 and will necessitate increasing the number of employees from 75 to 90.

National Plumbing and Supply Co., 2121 Olive street, opened a new office and warehouse containing 10,000 square feet.

General Brake Service Corporation, 2727 Locust street, building an addition to its present structure and increasing number of employees from 27 to 48.

Building and Failures. "Building contracts awarded in St. Louis during February, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation," continues the report, amounted to $6,168,900, as compared with $5,368,500 for February, 1927, representing a decrease of $800,000.

According to the report of R. G. Dunn & Co., this compares with $5,368,500 for February, 1927, with assets of $175,913 and liabilities of $333,938.

According to the report of R. G. Dunn & Co., this compares with $5,368,500 for February, 1927, with assets of $175,913 and liabilities of $333,938.

"The Mississippi Warrior Service reports a February tonnage of approximately 125,000 tons, as compared with 85,482 tons in February, 1927, an estimated increase of 46 per cent. A large line system which promises to be significant in the development of the river transportation facilities of the St. Louis Industrial District is the project of the Northwestern Terminal Co., which is planning to ship Illinois coal northward and grain and other heavy freight downstream.

Other Business Barometers. "Other principal business barometers may be summarized as follows:

"For the month of February, 1927, as compared with February, 1926: Building permits increased 17.65 per cent; bank clearings increased 3.53 per cent; debts to individuals increased 1.22 per cent and total debts to individuals and bank accounts increased 6.32 per cent. Real estate transfers decreased 36 per cent in St. Louis and increased 10.75 per cent in St. Louis County. Postoffice receipts decreased 3.20 per cent, and water consumption increased 2.27 per cent."

McNary-Haugen bill and I know he has advised against it, and it is my opinion he has exerted himself more against it than any other public official."

WHEELER ASSAILS
U. S. JUDGE IN COAL STRIKE AS "UNFIT"Injunction Issued by Judge

tacked at Senate Hearing.COAL OPERATOR LAYS DEPRESSION TO UNIONS. H. Robbins, President of Ohio Association, Says Workers Ceased to Seek Arbitration.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Any Judge who would sign such a preliminary injunction as was issued by Judge Benson W. Hough at Steubenville, O., against the United Mine Workers in September, 1927, "is unfit to sit on a Federal bench," declared today before the Senate Committee investigating the coal situation.

The Senator made his charge during testimony of S. H. Robbins, president of the Ohio Coal Operators' Association, who defended the writ.

Robbins previously had blamed the United Mine Workers and "inequitable" freight rates for what he termed the practical starvation of Ohio coal from its customary markets.

Says Freight Rates Are Unfair. Miners' officers were charged by Robbins with taking an "arbitrary position with reference to wage scales." He also laid the present depression in the Ohio coal industry to "the denial to Ohio for many years through inequitable freight rates of a competitive field in its geographical location."

"For more than 30 years," said Robbins, "Ohio coal has been mined almost exclusively by members of the United Mine Workers and their organizations, between the organization and the operators. No doubt that same condition would prevail today if the officers of the miners' organization had been willing to recognize economic and commercial conditions."

"Ohio was one of the four states comprising what was known as the central competitive field. By arrangement, representatives of the miners and operators, giving mutual competitive field met at certain intervals in an endeavor to make basic wage scales and working conditions for the four states."

Used Agreements as Basis. "The miners' organization then used such agreements as basis for working out their wage scales in all other districts in the United States and Canada in which they had working agreements with the operators."

"This arrangement at the time of its inception and for some years afterward functioned with more or less success. However, as the time passed, the operators, who have been conducting a magnetic survey across Tibet, have arrived at Leh, a mountain caravan center north of the Himalayas."

This is the first definite word received from the party since Sept. 19 when they were said to have reached Nanchuku, 10 days' journey north of Lhasa. Previously they had been reported slain by bandits on the Tibetan border.

Leh is a center for caravan traffic between north-western India and Chinese Turkestan. The arrival of the party there marks the start of the second and final stage of their survey.

Members of the party say that they have added much to knowledge of terrestrial magnetism by establishing through Kulu, in Chinese Turkestan, a connection between the West Asiatic-European and Chinese net made by the magnetic survey of the Carnegie Institute, and likewise by linking up the Chinese net with the Indian net.

The expedition established 156 magnetic stations since it started from Kulu.

SANTOS, Brazil, March 12.—The population of Santos, in a state of alarm ever since Saturday's disastrous landslide on Monserrate, was thrown into further panic today when another part of the mountain slid down with a great noise.

Faced with the possibility of further avalanches, the authorities decided to force a slide along the parts still most seriously threatened so as to remove the further danger that tons of earth would bury houses in their path.

Neighborhoods comparatively distant from the mountain were being evacuated. Streets leading from the neighborhood of the mountain are congested with refugees and their belongings.

MEXICO HOPES FOR TOURISTS,

President Placido Ambassador Morrow in Audience With William T. Dewart, Publisher.

MEXICO CITY, March 12.—President Calles yesterday received in audience William T. Dewart, publisher of the New York Sun, who is visiting Mexico City as a guest of Dwight W. Morrow, the American Ambassador. The President repeated in effect what he recently told a visiting group of mid-west editors, that a new era of better relations between Mexico and the United States is resulting from Ambassador Morrow's work.

"Morrow is doing a man's job, doing it most capably and is precisely the man for that job," President Calles said.

The President declared he had no complaint against newspapers for criticizing and pointing out faults in Mexico; that he only wants them to tell the truth—the good as well as the bad about Mexico.

Calles said he has concluded that tourist travel from the United States to Mexico is one of the best ways of improving relations between the two countries, giving many United States visitors a real understanding of Mexico. Therefore, he said, the Mexican Government has decided to make special efforts to stimulate tourist travel to Mexico as much as possible.

Used Agreements as Basis. "The miners' organization then used such agreements as basis for working out their wage scales in all other districts in the United States and Canada in which they had working agreements with the operators."

Five-Day Week Predicted For All Working MenGeneral Motors Head Says Electricity and Inventive Skill of Man Will Bring Double Holidays.

NEW YORK, March 12.—A prediction by John J. Raskob, chairman of the finance committee of General Motors, that eventually every workingman would have two days' holiday each week, aroused general interest today.

Raskob's prediction on a two-day holiday a week was made in a statement to the Regional Planning Federation at Philadelphia.

Electricity, coupled with the great inventive skill of man, he said, would eventually bring this about. In most cases this would be Saturday and Sunday, he said, but in others it probably would not be available to have it over the weekend.

One of Raskob's theories, and which he said is a principle of General Motors, is that brains should be capital rather than capital buy brains.

"They say that Carnegie made 20 millionaires over a period of years," he said. "Well, we made 80 millionaires in four years in General Motors."

"In 1923 we put into execution modern ideas of the relationship of capital, labor and management. As important as either working on the principle that brains should buy capital rather than capital buy brains."

"We induced 80 of our senior and junior executives to go into debt to buy General Motors stock. We got them to pledge themselves to buy $25,000,000 worth. They put up $5,000,000 and borrowed $20,000,000. That stock is worth today $250,000,000 or so. All obligations have been paid off and every one of those men, even the juniors who only put in $25,000, are millionaires."

"The reason the stock got so valuable and made these men millionaires is that they became owners and worked their heads off for success."

"It's a great principle of industrial success today, that principle of making brains and brawn a part of your business, and therefore by getting them to put all their energy and intelligence and loyalty into the job. We help our laboring men to save and to invest in General Motors, and we have no modern ideas of the relationship of capital, labor and management."

Should the relief union obtain general recognition, "credit centers" would be established in various parts of the world from which financial assistance would be rushed to stricken areas.

The department has informed the President the unemployment situation is being studied very carefully, with no avenue left unexplored for possible improvement.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Notes on the Income Tax.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Y OUR editorial, "Who's Looney Now?"

Of the 4,000,000 taxpayers filing income tax returns, only 2 1/2 per cent ever refer to the income tax required by law. The vast majority can find sufficient information on the instruction sheet attached to each return. Then again, should an individual not be enlightened by the sheet, he need not worry about the bulk of the regulations. It is only the individual case, and the explanation will not consume more than a half page, nor more than several minutes of his time.

Revenue agents, to whom your editorial refers to as bureaucrats, are not prospective future tax experts, as the profession is no longer profitable. This condition is due to enlightenment disseminated by the so-called bureaucrats. Evidence of the value of the revenue agent is further evident by the fact that nine out of every 10 people at the post office file their own returns and thus incur no expense whatever. The cost per taxpayer of revenue agents' salaries is insignificant when compared with the sum he would be charged by an income tax expert for filing his return and then probably not file it right.

It is only the dishonest taxpayer that need fear the revenue agent. To the honest citizen he is of help and often is the means of recovering his money as a result of a misinterpretation of the law or to error. The American income tax laws are comparatively simple, and even an editorial writer should find no difficulty in interpreting it. The writer considers your newspaper an outstanding example of what a good newspaper should be. Your stand on important issues is admirable and wise. But malicious editors of the type referred to here can bring you nothing but ill will.

Adam H. Dickey's Book.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I WILL thank you if you will publish this letter in order to give your readers our statement in regard to the article appearing in your issue of March 5, which is a description of the "suppressed book" of the late Adam H. Dickey.

"Pressure was brought to bear on Mrs. Dickey, it is reported, to suppress the book." No pressure was necessary. The Christian Science Board of Directors requested Mrs. Dickey to call the book in, which she did, willingly.

The statement quoted that Mrs. Dickey was "surrounded by a bodyguard of practitioners, who fought constantly to ward off the 'mental assassins' who sought, if possible, to destroy her life," is misleading, and certainly furnishes a good reason for suppressing the book. The directors recognized that such a book with the unrelated instances in Mrs. Dickey's life, which it records, would not be understood by the public. This so-called bodyguard was composed of earnest, conscientious Christian Scientists who were praying for their leader, Mrs. Dickey, and for the cause she founded. All Christians recognize that such a book would be a tragedy, as did Mrs. Dickey, are attacked by evil. The means through which these attacks of evil are overcome is prayer. These practitioners, who were with Mrs. Dickey, were engaged in prayer.

Report on Spring at St. John.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

GOSHAMIGHTY, C. M., where you been, writing in about first robin this time of year? Why, one robin at St. John have been here as long as they're getting ready to raise families. Why, we haven't wound an alarm clock for a month on account of the racket of the red birds at daybreak. We counted 15 meadow larks in one bush that were looking for bugs three weeks ago. We've been planting hedges and trimming rose bushes, and our 3-year old boy has a coat of sunburn. Daffodils are four fingers high on the south side of the house. Marble time is about past for the school kids and daddies have been making three-stick red-white-and-blue kites for their boys the past week. First robin? AUG. F. BERNING.

RESTITUTION AND PUNISHMENT.

Senator Borah wants the Republican party to return all the money which it received from Harry Sinclair as the result of the infamous deal with the former Secretary Fall in the Teapot Dome and the profits of the Continental Trading Co. The Senator writes to Chairman Butler that the political party, of course, is not responsible for the acts of individual members but when wrongful transactions become known to the party, "it must necessarily become responsible if it fails to repudiate the transaction and return the fruits thereof." The whole transaction had in view "an ulterior and sinister purpose." He says, moreover, that the Republican party cannot "in honor and decency" keep the Sinclair money.

All of this is true. It was an infamous transaction, and the Republican party is besmirched by it. The fact that the Republican organization took money known to be the spoils of bribery and fraud on the part of a cabinet officer put it in alliance with the scoundrels who made the deal, and gave a strong color of truth to the charge that the leaders of the party were in a conspiracy to carry out the infamous transaction.

Restitution, to be sure, would help some. But restitution does not square a crime. Giving back the money to Sinclair would merely indicate that the present Republican organization is not willing to handle tainted bonds. But punishment of the rascals is the main thing. The Republican party as an organization and its representatives in office have done practically nothing to bring its rascals to justice. Its administration has been shamefully indifferent to the efforts to punish the men who brought reproach upon it.

Another thing that Mr. Borah should insist on is that all the moral and official strength of the Republican party be concentrated on the work of uncovering the whole scandal and punishing every rascal connected with it. One of the first things it can do is to help the Senate Committee discover how much money came from the profits of the Continental Trading Co. and other similar devices to conceal the slush fund and who handled the fund. It is its duty to expose the whole scandal and everyone connected with it, and to punish the guilty.

Commenting on Senator Borah's letter to Chairman Butler, Senator Reed makes a strong point. He suggests that the conspiracy law which has been so potent to bring everyone connected with liquor law violations into court, should be invoked in this scandalous, lawless deal. Under that law the receiver of stolen goods is as guilty as the thief. Everyone in any way connected remotely with the crime is subject to indictment and trial.

Senator Borah and other Republicans who hold with him that the Republican party must purge itself of the taint of profiting by bribery, ought to insist that everyone connected with the conspiracy should be exposed and that not one guilty man escape punishment, and they should co-operate actively in efforts to do this end.

Otherwise, they will be open to Senator Reed's taunting characterization of the Borah suggestion: "Bought—caught—remorse—restitution—righteousness."

NEW YORK'S CRIME METHODS.

Joab Banton, District Attorney of New York County, expressed surprise on his recent visit here when he learned juries in Missouri fix the penalty in criminal cases. The system in New York State, since the passage of the Baumes laws, he explained, emphasizes the need for a rigorous investigation of the criminal before he is sentenced. In many a criminal trial in Missouri a defendant's record is but partially revealed. The jury may find him guilty of a particular act. But in passing sentence there is a major chance they will not weigh the entire man. A really dangerous criminal, skillfully defended, may escape lightly. A comparatively harmless individual, unskilled in the sharp practices of the veteran crook, may draw a significantly unfair stretch.

The Judge in New York State takes his time in fixing sentence. He learns the man's medical history, takes cognizance of his life from the day he was born. He has investigators for this purpose. The system seeks to determine whether the defendant is a dangerous unsocial unit. If such is the case, he is effectively disposed of by a long sentence. Under certain circumstances he may be put away for life. On the other hand, where an offender seems to offer possibilities of redemption, mercy is shown. Mr. Banton believes that New York State, through the Baumes law, is dealing intelligently with the criminal. Mr. Banton is right.

SINCLAIR AND THE REPUBLICANS.

Senator Borah thinks the Republicans should disgorge their oil loot, which disposes us to join Senator Reed of Missouri in decorous laughter. They will not, of course, do anything of the sort. What they might do is to make up a fund apportioning what they got from Sinclair and build a jail suiting the station and tastes of Sinclair and some of our other oil magnates. They are going to need such a jail, and the Republican party could not better express its gratitude for what they have done for their fortune above the level which has been very well characterized as vile.

Sinclair gave the party $150,000. Perhaps there is more that has not been discovered, but that will serve. It will build a luxurious little jug, possibly located on some scenic spot where the inmates can feast their vision upon what is as soul-growing as such a model housework would itself be satisfying for its creature comforts. Fine birds require gilded cages. It is well known what jails are. They are impossible either architecturally or socially. This jail ought not to be the one, and it certainly will not be the other. The jailbirds promise to be a very select little group of men distinguished by what most distinguishes one in our industrial era—that is, money. They ought to have what money can buy. If there are enough of them to make up a bridge game, and the life is agreeable, what might otherwise have been a nightmare which embarrassed us all may become a pleasing interlude.

It might be a happy idea to make it a club jail and locate it on the famous Fall ranch in New Mexico. In addition to scenery and all the comforts of home, the distinguished inmates would also have hunting and fishing.

SIDNER AND GEIST.

Circuit Attorney Howard Sidner, now a candidate for reelection, made haste to correct the grotesque error made by his chief clerk, William Geist, in the Cox murder case. Geist misinformed Judge Gayer as to the nature of the charge against Cox, who shot and killed a neighbor in a quarrel over a dog, saying it was second-degree murder instead of first-degree. On the basis of that misinformation, Cox was admitted to bail. Sidner yesterday appeared before Judge Gayer to ask that the bond be canceled and that Cox be rearrested.

That such a mistake as this could take place is remarkable and would cause considerable surprise if we weren't accustomed to it. The conduct of the Circuit Attorney's office in recent years has been a comedy, and often a tragedy, of errors. Sometimes, as in the Motlow and Rutherford cases, public opinion has flared to a high pitch, only to subside when it became clear that nothing could be done about it—at least until election time.

Whether Sidner or Geist is primarily at fault in the Cox case, the fact remains that responsibility for the great number of curious and slipshod happenings in connection with criminal prosecutions must ultimately be placed at the door of the Circuit Attorney himself.

WHEN FORD TAKES TO FLYING.

Henry Ford, who discovered that automobiles should be built for economy—and made an honest dollar or two thereby—has turned his thoughts to aviation and now comes forth with the announcement that in the development of aviation safety must be stressed before every other consideration.

So it is, says the lanky Detroit, that the multi-engine airplane must be developed above all others, and so it is, too, that the dirigible is likely to be safer than the airplane for trans-Atlantic passenger work, and therefore more popular.

It is men like Ford, who can work out such a simple proposition and develop it unceasingly, that will bring safety to aviation, just as it now has speed and comfort. It is not too much to hope that within 10 or 15 years an aerial trip, even now regarded as relatively safe, will be shorn of its remaining terrors and become the object of no more fear than the steamship voyage of today.

THE PROMISED LAND.

We are a land of Babbitts, no doubt. We grind out our lives in the pursuit of dollars, and rarely do our dreams soar among the rare atmospheres of pure beauty, pure thought. This much we have been told by many wise critics, whom it is difficult to doubt.

Still, boys and girls, old men and children from all the corners of the world, seem willing to go through amazing ordeals in order to become one of us. Up at Niagara Falls, for example, a girl of 17, native of Lithuania, flirted with a most terrifying death in the hope of becoming an American. She walked at midnight along a narrow steel girder, with the swirling waters of the Whirlpool Rapids 250 feet below her, in the hope of passing undetected from Canada into the United States. And she paid $250 to the man who showed her how it might be done.

Perhaps, then, in wattle huts and under thatched roofs, in crowded slums and picturesque villages of the old familiar parts of the world, they still think of this as the promised land. Hearing their stories, we can hardly do less than strive to make it that.

ANOTHER WORLD WAR.

It begins to look like there is going to be another world war. A declaration has been made in Paris and there is no telling where it will end. This time the fighting will be done by women mostly, for it is to be a fashion war. As usual there is a man mixed up in it. Or a male dressmaker at any rate. He is the one who has opened hostilities.

The campaign he has set for himself is to drive the women from the uniformity in which they have entrenched themselves and break up their serried ranks of monotony into the diversification of mode which is the designer's delight. What the women need, says the man from the Rue de la Paix, is more of the elegance of individuality, which he is ready to supply at regular prices. He intimates that he has the backing of a number of women of light and leading who are good dressers and good payers, but he doesn't give any names. His attack is directed against the rank and file of comfortable but unenlightened females in regulation one-piece uniforms who, it is believed, will not feel like surrendering all that they have gained.

The strategy, according to a communique from Paris, it is to be slow attrition, here a little and there a little, a gradual lengthening of hem line, greater elaboration of cut and workmanship, a modified neck line, a technique which follows the natural silhouette, a dip at the back, the flowing panel and sudden and subtle flares in unexpected places, lighting up the scene.

It sounds like a first class offensive. It is a question how long the emancipated women of the world will be able to stand against it with their light and short one-pieces.

PRISON-MADE GOODS.

The Hawes and Cooper bills to bar prison-made goods from interstate commerce are opposed by New England Governors on the ground that the proposal would constitute an entering wedge to violate the rights of states to determine the conduct of their interstate business with other states. Whatever value that argument may have, the Governors make a more tangible one when they say that the proposed law would destroy the market for prison goods and bring about a condition of unemployment in the prisons which would be of great harm to the prisoners and of great expense to the state.

Agitation against prison-made goods has been proceeding for years, with the result that prison activities have been severely curtailed. We in Missouri are facing the problem of making the penitentiary pay, a problem complicated by the inefficient management of the Knies regime. Aside from that, however, no greater torture could be imposed upon the prisoners themselves than to deprive them of occupation. A prison full of idle men would be a veritable madhouse.

The problem of finding work for convicts is a corollary to the proposal to bar prison-made goods from interstate commerce.

Anyway, Will Hays is no longer the whiteheaded boy of American politics.

BEGINNING TO LOOK LIKE A SEVEN MILLION DOLLAR MAJORITY.

The Case of Will Hays

From The Nation

WILL H. HAYS was Postmaster-General in the Harding Cabinet, and chairman of the Harding Campaign Committee in the 1920 presidential campaign. He is today the "car" and moral guardian of the motion-picture industry, a member of Hays & Hays of Indianapolis, who for many years have been attorneys for the Sinclair Consolidated Oil Co., a leading elder of the Presbyterian Church and one of Herbert Hoover's chief campaign advisers. On March 1, 1928, Mr. Hays went before the Senate Committee on Public Lands, and, under cross-examination, admitted that four years earlier, testifying under oath before the same committee, he had lied about his contributions to the Republican party funds. A lie, according to the dictionary, is "something told with intent to deceive." Mr. Hays lied. The Department of Justice, which would be responsible were a charge of perjury justified in the circumstances, Mr. Hoover, the Presbyterian church and the motion-picture industry would do well to consider the case of Mr. Hays.

On March 24, 1924, Mr. Hays told the Senate Committee that Harry F. Sinclair had contributed a maximum of $75,000 to the Republican fund, and that the contribution had not been made personally to him; in 1928, before the same committee, he reported Sinclair gifts and loans, made to him personally, oscillating between $75,000 and $250,000, and finally resting at $100,000. Meanwhile some of the missing bonds of the Continental Trading Co., the mysterious fly-by-night concern created by Sinclair and the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, had been traced to Mr. Hays' campaign committee. Mr. Hays now says that he had never heard of the Continental company at the time that he asked and received that money; but the story of Teapot Dome was already public when Hays went to Sinclair, and he knew that he was asking this huge sum of a man accused of bringing his Cabinet colleague, Albert B. Fall, he cannot now recall any other contribution of so much as $100,000; and it is difficult to believe that Mr. Hays was not aware that there was a reason why Sinclair should be willing to contribute so large a sum to the G. O. P.

SINCLAIR, we now know, gave Fall $250,000 in bonds and $45,000 in cash; and he gave Mr. Hays, for the party, $100,000. In addition he lent the Republican National Committee for two years, without interest, $100,000. Mr. Hays' present story is this: In 1923, he told Sinclair that the party had reduced its campaign fund deficit of $1,200,000, but still needed big money before embarking on the campaign that was to elect Coolidge. Sinclair said that he would give him $75,000 outright, and would lend him $125,000 in Government bonds, which Hays was to repay. The $75,000 was immediately applied to a bank indebtedness; $50,000 was given to John T. Pratt, director of the New Haven, the Delaware & Hudson and other railroads, of the International Acceptance Bank, the J. G. White Co. and other corporations (his business Hays described as "philanthropic and civic enterprises"), but Mr. Pratt later decided to contribute that amount himself, and returned the bonds to Sinclair; $20,000 was sent to Fred Upham, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, who apparently distributed the sum among his friends so that they could appear to make inconspicuous contributions in smaller sums to the party deficit; $25,000 went to John W. Weeks, Secretary of War, for the same purpose of concealing the Sinclair gift. Mr. Hays asserts that shortly before appearing before the Senate Committee in 1924 he returned $45,000 to Mr. Sinclair, but that soon after his testimony Mr. Sinclair, aware that Hays had suffered heavy financial losses, returned the bonds to him. (As Will Rogers remarked, "Bad as I felt, I had to laugh at that one.") Incidentally, Mr. Hays' losses were in Sinclair stock.

The story of Sinclair's huge contribution, long suspected, almost came out in 1924. The New York Times, just before Hays appeared on the witness stand, printed a rumor that Hays would admit receiving "75,000 shares of Sinclair stock." Hays, however, swore to Senator Walsh that:

I saw this Times story and was surprised and shocked as you were, and I say that that statement and that story and that rumor is as false in content as it is libelous in purpose. . . . Nothing like this story that appeared in the paper, nothing at all like that story, ever happened.

In 1928, faced with that Mr. Hays crawled thus: "I did not volunteer about these bonds. I was not asked about them." He forgot that in 1924 he had added: "There is not anything I know about this matter of campaign contributions that I want to conceal." He forgot that in 1924 he had sworn that "the total amount" that could possibly have been given by Mr. Sinclair was not over $75,000, and had repeated: "That was the maximum amount, $75,000."

In 1924, too, Mr. Hays answered Senator Walsh's questions with a flat statement that "it was not paid to me." That was only four months after the payment. Four years later his memory had returned. In 1928 he recalled that Sinclair had handed the bonds to him in New York City, in a package, at the same time that he turned over the $25,000 in cash. If this is not perjury, what is it?

MR. HAYS did not come forward voluntarily to set the record straight, and his testimony was drawn out of a wriggling, evasive, scared witness. His department, as the St. Louis Post-Dispatch puts it, "was that of a slippery Ohio gangster, rather than that of a Presbyterian elder." Yet the Department of Justice has taken no steps to consider whether he committed perjury in 1924, the Treasury is not investigating the income tax returns of Upham and Pratt, or of Blackmer and Stewart and the oil refugees, and Mr. Hays himself remains on the good books of the picture industry, of Hoover, and of the Presbyterian Church.

One would think that the time had come for the Republican party to begin to worry about its reputation. The Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of the Navy in its 1920 Cabinet have been called by the Supreme Court-betrayers of a public trust; the Attorney-General has been even worse branded; the Postmaster-General and the Secretary of War are now exposed as conspiring to circumvent the law about campaign contributions; and in Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts party leaders have been caught in corruption. Can the Hugheses, Hoovers, Coolidges afford to continue in a state of moral mummification?

SPEAKING OF INCENSE.

In a moment of weakness we bought an incense burner. Some incense burners are so built that they can do auxiliary duty as ash trays. Unless it is burning incense, it is a total loss ethetically and architecturally. So we bought some incense. As we are a virtue lover of the great outdoors, our box of incense was "Breath of the forest." "Wind sighing in the pine trees." "Dusk in a lumber camp" or some such prognathous jawed name. We burned our fingers and four boxes of matches before we finally learned the trick of lighting the incense and setting it upright in the burner. The result was a heavy, indefinite, pungent odor, which could just as well have been "Suburban train in a tunnel." "Midnight in a garage" or "Fire in a rubber factory" as "Aeolus disporting among the pines." It was not at all delicately scented, and it was not at all incense. It was the odor of our incinerator. We do not know if "Wistaria" is a Pullman car or a new shade of hosiery, but we played a hunch. Previously, we had played a hunch on Dempsey, and should have been wiser. As the worst pun of the century, we should have had better scent, but we didn't. "Violet" and "Rose" followed each other in quick succession. As soon as we find an incense, the odor of which will endeavor in a nice, quiet, refined way to dispel the smell of too many cigarettes, an incense which has about it the clinging fragrance of an old love affair, we shall buy some more. But so long as the incense carries about with it aggression and the perfume counter in a tea-store, we prefer an old road in August.

Too often, the candidate's stand on the issue is that it isn't.

City Mountaineers?

HE stark, unreserved sensationalism served by the tabloid type of yellow newspaper will eventually sap the intellectual vitality of the American people," says M. K. Wisheart, author of "The Kiss," a recently published book which deals with the effects of sensational metropolitan journalism upon the life of a New England community.

"Sensational journalism of the type which is now at its zenith is a substitute for thought, reading and sound information," Mr. Wisheart maintains. "It is in fact, developing what in time we must come to recognize as a new type of American—the city mountaineer."

"Down in Tennessee, Kentucky and the Carolinas we have the real mountaineers," Mr. Wisheart says. "They are bounded by the rim of the narrow valley within which they live. Notoriously, he knows little or nothing of what goes on in the outside world and doesn't seem to care either."

"Now in our metropolitan cities a type of similar, and even more pronounced, mental characteristics," he knows little or nothing of the country outside his own city—and wants to know nothing. The sensation after another—murders, jazz religions, jazz variations. He has no intellectual questions for the simple reason that his life is almost exclusively that of the emotions, such as they are."

"An eminent psychologist reporting upon his studies of the average city dweller says that he leaves school at about the eighth grade, has a vocabulary of about 1500 words, has practically no knowledge of civics, politics or literature, and on a standardized intelligence test scores an average of a 14-year-old boy. Some of this may seem scarcely a picture of what the psychologist calls 'the average man.' But it is an exalted picture of the increasingly common type of tabloid reader—the metropolitan back-slasher."

EDMUND: A POETIC ROMANCE By John Keats (Oxford University Press, American Branch, New York.) This very interesting volume deserves a place in the library alongside the John Day Co.'s admirable series of photographic reproductions of famous literary works. We have the text of Keats' "Edmund" in a type-facsimile of the first edition which was issued in 1817. The paper and the ink are said to be as near like those of the excessively rare original as it was possible to make them. The text of the poem itself is accompanied with a gleamingly illustrated introduction by E. V. Rieu, and an introductory essay on Keats by H. Clement Notcutt, professor of English in the University of Stellenbosch, South Africa.

HUMAN JETISON. By Frederic C. Hicks (West Pub. Co., Paul.) There had been a shipwreck half the passengers had gone down with the ship. A large number of men and women had been crowded into a small boat which was in danger of sinking. It was necessary to relieve the boat and in order to do this, the mate ordered most of the men passengers to be thrown overboard. At the time developed that the so-called "necessity" was not recognized by the courts. Upon this situation, author, who is a law librarian at Lumbia University, bases his story.

POEMS IN PRAISE OF PRIDE. CALLY NOTHING. By S. Hoffenstein (Boni & Liveri.) A collection of cleverly crafted poems of the type which give special attention being given women, love and matrimony. Mencken has described the book as "incomparable," which is a high commendation. It is more than merely clever in its use of certain plague spots in modern life, and such verses are effective in that the revealing of modern life is not recognized by Hoffenstein, however one may sympathize with him, is no life which is more than can be said a great many verse writers.

MISSIONARY COUNCIL

READJUST POLICIES

World-Wide Session in Jerusalem to Last From March 24 Until Easter.

Jerusalem, March 13—Christians and women from all over the world have begun to arrive here to take part in the great meeting of the International Missionary Council on the Mount of Olives to last from March 24 until Easter Sunday.

Dr. John R. Mott, American evangelist, who will preside over the conference, said: "Stupendous changes have taken place since the last missionary conference over 14 years ago in Edinburgh, Scotland, and conditions today call for a new kind of a re-orientation of the missionary enterprise to its universal work."

The whole world-wide Christian missionary situation, Dr. Mott said, is undergoing a re-orientation. For that reason, he said, this year's meeting of the International Missionary Council should be greatly enlarged. Half of the 250 delegates are members of the young churches of China, Korea, Japan, the Philippines, India, Africa and Latin America. They include men and women like Dr. C. Y. Cheng, Dr. K. S. Datta, Dr. David Yung, Dr. P. F. Tseng, the Chinese woman educationalist; Bishop Usaki, Dr. Tagawa, M. P. from Japan; A. A. A. Bishop of Dornakal, Dr. S. K. Datta, until recently a member of the Indian National Congress, and Miss H. K. daughter of the Marathi leader.

Nearly 40 delegates and officials are coming from the United States, including Dr. A. L. Warnham, one of the secretaries of the International Missionary Council. Bishop H. D. Tagawa, M. P. from Japan, Dr. S. K. Datta, until recently a member of the Indian National Congress, and Miss H. K. daughter of the Marathi leader.

Dr. Mott said that the conference would be a landmark in the history of the missionary movement. It would be the first time since the Edinburgh conference of 14 years ago that so many delegates from the young churches of the world would be present. It would also be the first time since the Edinburgh conference that so many delegates from the United States would be present.

CITY SAVES $52,000 ON WATER LEAKAGE

Meters Installed on Mains Discloses Defective Joints and Pipes.

By checking waste in leaky joints and defective pipelines during the last nine months, St. Louis has saved $52,166 worth of water, figured at regular meter rates, according to a letter received today by Water Commissioner Day from the Pitometer Co. of New York.

Nine months ago the Pitometer Co. installed meters at various points and from the figures recorded by them found many sources of waste. One main, at Eighth street and Franklin avenue, for instance, was discovered to be losing $200 worth of water a day through a large, but undetected, leak.

The checking process has not yet been completed. The downtown district, including many large water consumers, is still to be inspected before a definite figure can be reached on the city's annual saving. On the basis of the check already made, however, the Water Commissioner was informed the city would save $69,582 annually.

In the districts already checked, it was found that there was a loss of 8,533,000 gallons daily.

WHEELER ASSAILS U. S. JUDGE IN COAL STRIKE AS "UNFIT"

ance with the allegation specified by the Johnson resolution under which the investigation is being made.

Union representatives announced the "railroad conspiracy angle" would be disposed of first, and requested permission for the insertion of numerous affidavits regarding conditions in the Pennsylvania fields as a means of lessening the number of witnesses.

To Expedite Inquiry.

Watson announced that this opportunity would be granted, in the interest of expediting the investigation.

Robbins yesterday submitted a table of prices paid in Ohio by various railroads for fuel from 1919 to 1927. He estimated that about 25 per cent of Ohio coal was purchased by railroads, adding that the price has decreased since 1921. He said he had participated in no conferences with railroad representatives in which pressure for lower prices was brought to bear.

"When did you first decide to go on a nonunion basis in Ohio?" asked Warrum. "In about May, 1927," said Robbins.

Warrum then discussed the retention by Robbins of Dr. J. F. Meagher, "hitting" Mr. Ya, as an employee, characterizing the latter as a "notorious strike buster" who boasted he had broken the famous West Virginia steel strike. Robbins admitted the employment of Meagher who, he said, had been elected an officer in the Ohio Operators' Association in 1927.

Denies Payment of $25,000.

Robbins denied Meagher had been paid $25,000 a year as stated by Warrum, saying he had received much less for "acting in an advisory capacity."

"Warrum asserted that Meagher was bound over for Federal grand jury action on a charge of conspiracy to violate the prohibition laws in connection with a liquor shipment."

Warrum then entered what he called a "yellow dog contract," between the Monroe Coal Co. and George Morrison Aug. 12, 1927, and asked whether Meagher had anything to do with such contracts. Robbins said he did not know, but admitted that similar contracts had been sponsored for the Ohio operators by Meagher.

TO OPEN STATE PRISON INQUIRY INTO CONVICTS' USE OF DRUGS

Col. A. H. Harrison Promises Investigation of ex-Prisoner's Story to St. Louis Police.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 13.—Investigation into conditions at the Missouri State Penitentiary was promised today by Col. A. H. Harrison, director of the State Penal Board, and prison officials who have been informed by Federal narcotic agents of the case of Eugene L. Bell, 23-year-old ex-convict, of St. Louis, who told police he acquired the narcotic habit while in prison.

Bell said he became a user of drugs after a "lifer" induced him to purchase a quantity. Prison officials and narcotic agents have made several raids in the last six months and have confiscated large quantities of narcotics. Recently a prison guard, W. Y. Rich, was arrested as a smuggler of narcotics into the prison, and officials believed they had stopped an important source.

Bell told Federal Narcotics Inspector Thompson of St. Louis that one-fourth of the prisoners at the State penitentiary are addicts, but Col. Harrison characterized this statement as an "exaggeration."

REQUEST FOR POWER PERMIT WITHDRAWN

Missouri Hydro-Electric Co.
Takes Action When Osage Project Is Opposed.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, March 13.—
The Missouri Hydro-Electric Power Co. withdrew its application for an extension or reissuance of its permit to install and operate an electric plant as part of a proposed hydro-electric project on the Osage River, near Bagnell, in the course of a hearing yesterday on the request before the Public Service Commission. This was done in the face of protests against renewal of the permit.
Jesse Andrews of Kansas City, attorney for the company, said the application was being withdrawn with the understanding that the company later could present it again to the Commission. The Commission permitted the withdrawal on this basis.

Protestants against an extension of the permit declared the company was insolvent and not financially capable of proceeding with the hydro-electric dam project.

They had indicated they would raise a question that the original promoters had assigned their interests to others, and were not in a position to seek renewal of the permit.

This point was not raised, as the hearing ended with withdrawal of the application.

Nancy Miller Joins Hindu Faith at Holy Ceremon

Seattle Woman, Who Will Become Bride of Indian
Ex-Ruler Saturday, Says
She Accepted Religion
Through Conviction.

JOINS HINDU FAITH

MISS NANCY ANN MILLER

By the Associated Press.
NASIK, India, March 13.—In this ancient holy city, an American woman today was converted from Christianity to Hinduism so that she might wed a former native ruler.
Miss Nancy Ann Miller, 27 years old, of Seattle, Wash., went through the conversion ceremony this morning and Saturday she will become the third wife of Tukoji Rao, former Maharajah of Indore.
Miss Miller told the head of Orthodox Hinduism that she had decided to embrace the religion of her fiancé. Of her own free will she made this statement to Jag-adguru Shankaracharya, who, because of his position, is entitled to be designated his "Holiness."
It came after an hour's conversation in which she had expressed her deep admiration for the ancient faith and at the end of which she made solemn affirmation that she was embracing it not only freely, but as a result of deep and sincere convictions and not from any worldly motives.
Miss Miller formally requested the right to admit her to the faith in accordance with Shastunjunctions. She expressed her termination always to remain to Hinduism and to try to live its ideals. She was acpanied by Princess Savitri faith in accordance with Shastric injunctions. She expressed her determination always to remain true to Hinduism and to try to maintain its ideals. She was accompanied by Princess Savitribai of Indore, a sister of the bridegroom-to-be.

Appearing very sad as though the strange ceremonies imposed a considerable strain upon her, Miss Miller played the central part in Hindu religious rites performed in semi-privacy on the banks of the sacred river Godavary.
The Hindu priest who officiated placed a mark upon her brow and she then performed the ceremony of Puja, or Hindu worship, before a sacred fire of coals known as "Agani." Then she bathed in Godavary waters.
Miss Miller was dressed in Indian attire and wore a richly embroidered sari, or loose flowing robe.
The ceremony took place at Gangapur, five miles from Nashik, where Jagadguru Shankaracharya has his headquarters. Many spectators, including a number of Europeans, came to witness the conversion.
Miss Miller was dressed in a sari, the long silk mantle which forms the chief part of an Indian woman's attire, and after the casti mark had been placed on her brow she took a seat near the holy fire. After the conversion ceremony, which lasted about half an hour, she prostrated herself in Oriental style before the Hindu priest.
Miss Miller adopted the Hindu name Devi Sharmista.
A number of beautiful sarees were presented to her.Five Rescued From Snowslide.

Take no risky medicine

Thousands of smart women have found this easy way to take off 2 to 4 pounds once or twice a week. These women take refreshing Fayro baths in the privacy of their own homes.

Fayro is the concentrate of the same natural mineral salts that make effective the waters of twenty-two hot springs of America, England and Continental Europe. For years the spas and hot springs bathing resorts have been the retreat of fair women and well-groomed men.

Excess weight has been removed, skins have been made more lovely, bodies more shapely and minds brighter.

The Hot Springs Are Now Brought to You

Outstanding analyses of the active ingredients of the water from twenty-two of the most famous springs have taught us the secret of their effectiveness. You can now have all these benefits in your own bath. Merely put Fayro into your hot bath. It dissolves rapidly. You will notice the rich, pungent fragrance of the balsam, oils and clean salts.

Then, Fayro, by opening your pores and stimulating the perspiration forces, helps you to sweat out surplus fat and bodily poisons. Add Fayro to your bath at night and immediately you will lose from 2 to 4 pounds in an easy, refreshing and absolutely harmless manner.

Your physician will tell you that Fayro is certain to do the work and that it is absolutely harmless.

Fayro will refresh and help your body throw off worn out fat and bodily poisons. Your skin will be clearer and smoother. You will also better after your Fayro bath and awaken feeling as though you had enjoyed a week's vacation.

Lose Weight Where You Most Want to

Fayro reduces weight generally but you can also concentrate its effects on abdomen, hip, legs, ankles, chin or any part of the body you may wish.

Results Are Immediate

Weigh yourself before and after your Fayro bath. You will find you have lost from 2 to 4 pounds. And a few nights later when you again add Fayro to your bath, you will once more reduce your weight. Soon you will be the correct weight for your height. No need to deny yourself food you really want. No need for violent exercise. No need for drugs or medicines. Merely a refreshing Fayro bath in the privacy of your own home.

Try Fayro at Our Risk

The regular price of Fayro is $1.00 a package. With each package you get an interesting booklet "Health and Open Pores." Your money refunded instantly if you want it.

CITY WORKHOUSE INADEQUATE, SAYS WELFARE REPORT

New Building Urged to Take Place of 'Old, Overcrowded' One, Viewed as Menace to Health.

The present St. Louis workhouse is "so old, so overcrowded, so inadequate in every way to meet the difficult task of handling hundreds of men of dissimilar types herded into it" that a "completely new plant" is needed to replace it, says the Missouri Welfare League, in its 1927 report, published today.

"The workhouse," the report adds, "is undoubtedly now very dangerous both to health and morals. A significant fact indicative of the importance of making the workhouse a safe place is that so far as careful study has revealed, half the prisoners have never before served a term in a correctional institution.

"Fortunately the superintendent of the workhouse (Elisha C. Freeze) and various other city officials see clearly the need for a new institution, and are ready with some very practical suggestions. A way is open to obtain a new plant and pay for it by utilizing the present site for other purposes."

Idleness in the city jail, the report points out, helps make it a veritable "school of crime." The present St. Louis County Jail is described as "unsuitable for human occupancy." The league has been campaigning for a new county jail.

"In spite of efforts on the part of the jail administration to provide work," the report goes on, "ferring to the city jail, 'most of the prisoners at the jail most of the time are utterly idle. This fact, the character of some of the prisoners, the youth of many, and the mental attitude induced by anxiety and uncertainty make the institution, unless intensive work is done to prevent it, veritably a 'school of crime.'"

To offset the criminal influence, the league last year sponsored 53 meetings and chorus singing among the prisoners in order to provide a "wholesome means of self-expression," the report sets forth.

Chorus Singing Good.

"The good will and co-operation of the prisoners were marked," the report continues. "The quality of the chorus singing varied greatly as different groups of men came and went. It was surprisingly good. Prisoners sometimes furnished part of the program."

As result of welfare work among the city prisoners, report says, "discipline in the institution was made easier, the attitude of the guards toward the prisoners was improved, the morale of the jail was raised."

Need for "wholesome activities" at the State penitentiary also is stressed.

Increased Efforts Urged.

"The prevalence of crime by very young men," the report concludes, "calls for increased work to prevent crime. The great overcrowding in correctional institutions, particularly the penitentiary, constitutes an emergency requiring redoubled efforts to assist in meeting the crime-producing conditions in these institutions. Unusual opportunities for service now are open in St. Louis and St. Louis County."

The league lists among its 1928 projects a continued campaign for a new workhouse and county jail for an intermediate reformatory for young men, for parole officers in the St. Louis Court of Criminal Correction, and a demonstration, if finances permit, of prevention of delinquency in some county of the State.

POLICEMAN ATTEMPTS TO KILL NEGRO SLAYER OF BROTHER

Tries to Draw Pistol Twice in Courtroom When Prisoner Was Being Tried.

CHICAGO, March 13.—Police-man Jeremiah Delaney made two attempts to shoot a Negro who had pleaded guilty to killing his brother in a crowded Criminal courtroom yesterday, but was prevented each time by court attendants.

As the Negro, Arthur Lucas, pleaded guilty, Delaney drew his pistol and was about to pull the trigger when another policeman disarmed him. Then as Lucas received a sentence of 14 years, he whipped out another pistol. Again he was disarmed.

The Negro confessed the killing of Police Sergeant Patrick Delaney.

Aviator Says Craft Has Two-Cylinder, 20-Horsepower Engine; Will Market It in U. S.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 13.—Having toured Europe in his "vest pocket" airplane "Yankee Doodle," George Kern Jr. arrived here yesterday to arrange for the exploitation of these planes in America.

Kern, in relating his experiences, said he had first heard of these tiny air taxis from Wilbald Seyppelt, a German war-time aviator. With Seyppelt, now living in America, he bought one of the small Kienn-Daimler planes and began their 5000-mile tour of the continent.

According to Kern, this plane is extremely simple to handle. He said he learned to fly in two hours. Part of their tour in the "Yankee Doodle," which weighs only 600

Biting Finger Nails Caused Appendicitis

Authorities say that the habit of biting the finger nails sometimes causes appendicitis. Bits of finger nails, when swallowed, pass into the system, and many cases are known where they have lodged in the appendix, causing severe inflammation.

No longer need you endure the unsightly hands caused by nail biting, as a preparation called Thanx permanently and harmlessly breaks the dangerous habit. Absolutely safe. At all drug and department stores.

ASTRONOMER TO GET MEDAL
Dr. W. S. Adams of California Wins Award for Research.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 12.—The Catherine Wolfe Bruce medal "for distinguished service to astronomy" will be awarded for the year 1927 by the Astronomical Society of the Pacific to Dr. Walter Sydney Adams, director of the Mount Wilson observatory. One of Dr. Adams' achievements has been the development of a method whereby the distances of stars from the earth are determined from the measurements of the intensities of certain lines in their spectra. This recent work on the companion of Sirius has been referred to by some scientists as clinching the argument for the Einstein theory of relativity.

The medal is given each year upon the nomination of six of the great observatories, Paris, Greenwich, Cambridge, Harvard, Yerkes and Lick. Miss Bruce, donor of the medal, was the daughter of George Bruce, a type founder. She died in New York in May, 1900. The award of Dr. Adams will be made April 15 by W. W. Campbell, president of the University of California.

LITTLE DRAMAS IN THE LIFE OF A GREAT NEWSPAPER SYSTEM

Painted for Scripps-Howard Newspapers by Deas Cornwell

A noisy street car disturbed his sleep so he telephoned "Mr. Fixit"

A crosstown car line, in an Ohio city, ran one rickety old car with a flat wheel which bumped and squealed.

Housewives said it got on their nerves. A minister was so much bothered that he couldn't prepare his sermons. Finally, a man whose nocturnal rest was being disturbed, telephoned to "Mr. Fixit" of the city's SCRIPPS-HOWARD Newspaper, and complained of the noisy nuisance.

"Mr. Fixit" got busy with the officials of the traction company... A new and silent wheel replaced the old one. And so the neighborhood quiet was immediately restored.

"Mr. Fixit," or some one like him, is on the staff of every SCRIPPS-HOWARD Newspaper. His business is to help abate the minor irritations in the city's life. His ear is ever attuned to any citizen's complaint if it concerns some shortcoming in the city's streets or service.

If the branches of an elm extend over the sidewalk and brush pedestrians' faces... if a crack in a pavement imperils safe walking... if a manhole cover seems about to break... if there's any one of a thousand civic annoyances that Mr. Citizen wishes to remedy, without knowing how to go about it, "Mr. Fixit" is the man to consult. If action is to be had, he will get it.

In most cities, life is so complex that the average person has little idea where to go to get things done... The newspaper that befriends him in the problems that arise daily is, in turn, sure to win and hold his friendship and confidence... His heart-deep confidence... which in the SCRIPPS-HOWARD Newspapers extends to the advertising as well as to the editorial column!

There He Goes.

Speaking of Ball and other things pertaining to matters aerial and terrestrial, see where the Browns' proprietor arrived in St. Louis from San Diego in his airplane. His next flight will probably be to West Palm Beach, Fla., as an ambassador of good will and good luck to the Browns.

Phil has bought a new four-passenger Ryan plane as a hint to his pitchers that he will attend to all the aviation for the club.

Sam Braden may be one up on Phil Ball in the matter of pennants, but as long as Phil owns an airplane he will always be one up on Sam in aviation.

BROWNS,

ST. LOUISAN IN SECOND PLACE IN A. B. C. SINGLES

Robert Meinhardt, With 671 Score, Trails Leader at Kansas City by Only Three Pins.

KANSAS CITY, March 12.

Leaving good scores in all four events in the American Bowling Congress, out-of-town entries today turned the allies over to local five-men teams.

Leaders crowned Sunday generally were undisturbed yesterday. Five-man local booster teams rolled in the evening.

Robert Meinhardt of St. Louis took over second place in the singles with 671, three pins under the mark set Sunday by Joe Mendell of Cincinnati. C. Emmens of Chicago dropped to third in the singles with 662, while K. Scipio and G. Dunkle, both of Chicago, tied for fourth with 657.

Buck Flint, Chicago, held first place in the all-events with 1880, while J. Southeim of that city rolled 1834 to displace J. Lamberson of Cincinnati in fifth place. There were no changes in the doubles and five-men events.

HORNER, ST. LOUIS BOXER, WINS VERDICT OVER JOEY SHERMAN

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEWARK, N. J., March 12.—Jackie Horner, St. Louis boxer, defeated Joey Sherman in a fast 10-round bout here last night. The fight was fast with the pair battling at fairly even terms during the first few rounds, but the more rugged Horner grew stronger as the bout advanced and piled up enough points to capture the decision.

WESTERN INDOOR NET KING RETAINS TITLE

By the Associated Press.

CINCINNATI, O., March 12.—Emmet Pare of Chicago retained his title as Western indoor tennis champion when he defeated Muir Rogers of Kansas City in the final match of the Western indoor tennis tournament last night. The scores were 7-5, 6-4, 12-11.

Clara Louise Zinke, Cincinnati, easily retained the women's Western indoor title by defeating Ruth Oxman of Cincinnati, 6-2, 6-1.

Chronic Head Colds

A Simple Method of Prevention

Nasal catarrh is not only disagreeable and offensive, but it will lead to serious trouble.

That inflamed condition of the mucous membranes of the air passages of the head, nose and throat, may spread to the point where it is incurable and a danger to life.

Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes are composed of medicinal herbs, flowers and berries. The warm smoke vapor is inhaled into the affected air passages and will go where sprays, douches and salves cannot reach. They contain no tobacco or cube, and being harmless, are used by children, as well as adults.

If you suffer from any catarrhal trouble, plain nasal catarrh, catarrhal deafness, hoarseness, asthma, hay fever, bronchial irritations, or are subject to frequent colds, get from any druggist a pocket-size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes, and prove for yourself their pleasant, beneficial effects.

LADY EXPERT COMING TO HELP RUPTURED WOMEN

Demonstrates Rice Method Free to All

MRS. J. A. GILLIGAN

representing William S. Rice, Adams, N. Y., inventor of the famous Rice (Non-Surgical) Method for Rupture will be at Jefferson Hotel, St. Louis, Mo., from Monday morning, Mar. 12, until Saturday evening, Mar. 17, to demonstrate a new special corset attachment that holds any rupture no matter how large. Even if the abdomen is very fleshy, it holds any rupture with ease, comfort and security.

Special Combined Rupture and Corset Back Support.

Every woman who has been compelled to wear an ordinary truss or abdominal support knows the gouging, cutting and chafing caused by narrow bands. The weight of the abdomen or pressure is sometimes very great, causing untold suffering. The special, broad supporting corset back distributes the pressure around the back, and the pressure is sometimes very great, causing untold suffering. The special, broad supporting corset back distributes the pressure around the back, and the pressure is sometimes very great, causing untold suffering.

There are thousands of women who are in perfect misery because they cannot find anything that will hold their rupture and the abdomen at the same time. The appliances usually worn are hot, bulky, chafing and irritating. But this wonderful Combined Corset Back Support is light, flexible, durable and cool and fits the figure like a glove. It gives you a sense of absolute comfort and protection while at the same time greatly improving abdominal outlines.

Trusses in common use are not adapted to women and often do great harm. Women therefore, suffer more and are in greater danger from rupture than men, and all women, who have ruptures or who wear an abdominal support of any kind should not fail to call and see this wonderful combined Corset Back Support. No description or illustration can fully convey the remarkable utility of this splendid support. It must be seen; it must be put on to convince any woman that it was designed for her.

Mrs. Gilligan takes a large woman just as she is, all out of shape and unsightly and by this remarkable Corset Support gives her a natural, neat, trim figure.

She will also give full instructions on how to handle and care for your rupture, large or small. She will show how to hold any kind of rupture from the simple groin and femoral to the large and difficult Naval and after Operation Ruptures, without chafing or squeezing, also how to wear the corset correctly.

Don't let this great opportunity get away from you. Don't continue to suffer the burden of rupture and truss wearing when it is so entirely unnecessary. Your call on this Lady Expert is sure to prove one of the best things you ever did. She will be there only six days, then your opportunity will be gone. The fitting and demonstration are free. It doesn't cost you a penny to learn all about the Rice Method and the wonderful opportunity to help it offers in your case. After demonstration you can purchase the Outfit required if you wish.

Call any time from 9 to 12 a. m., 2 to 3 p. m., or 7 to 9 p. m. Just ask at the hotel desk for the Rice Representative and she will do the rest.

THREE CAUGHT AFTER ATTEMPTED ROBBERY

Patrolman Prevents Looting of Grocery on Otherwise Quiet Night for the Police.

St. Louis police, still working on emergency 10-hour shifts to prevent holdups and burglaries, last night enjoyed one of the quietest nights this winter.

At the grocery of William Gorsuch, 4250 North Broadway, at 1 o'clock this morning, Patrolman Edward Carmody discovered a side door broken and a man crawling on his hands and knees inside the store. The proprietor and reserves were sent for, and Richard Bolger, 20-year-old chauffeur, was found hiding in the rear of a pillow slip which was loaded with cigarettes and other merchandise.

An ex-convict and another police character were fired upon and caught as they ran out of an adjacent alley. Police suspect they "boosted" Bolger through the high side window and then acted as lookouts. All three prisoners declined to talk.

A burglar was discovered in the bedroom of John Adams, Negro, 3562 Enright avenue, at 12:30 a. m. The burglar dived through a window and escaped, as Adams fired three shots at him.

Bus Held Up In East St. Louis; Robbers Get $75.

Two armed men boarded a motorbus of the East St. Louis and Suburban Railway Co. at Nineteenth and Lynch streets, and, during the course of a 10-block ride, took $32 from the driver, J. H. Holyrod, $43 from two passengers, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Gardner, and smaller amounts from several other passengers, after which the robbers left the bus.

An armed man obtained $40 in a holdup at the Standard oil filling station at Fifteenth street and St. Louis avenue.

Declares Circuit Attorney Must

Make Application in Writing

Before Bail Is Granted.

Hereafter when the Circuit Attorney's office wants a defendant released on bond, Circuit Attorney Sidener himself must say so in writing, Judge Gayer of the Court of Criminal Correction has announced.

Judge Gayer's ruling follows the action of Sidener yesterday in overruling his chief clerk, William Geist, who last Friday went before Judge Gayer and obtained the release on $25,000 bond of William Cox, telling the Judge that Cox was charged with second-degree murder. Yesterday Sidener told Judge Gayer that Geist had acted without authority, as a first-degree murder warrant was outstanding against Cox. The bond thereupon was set aside, and Cox was rearrested. Cox shot and killed a neighbor in a quarrel over a dog last Wednesday.

Indigestion 25 Yrs. — Wants to Fight

"I had indigestion for 25 years. Nothing helped me like Adlerika did. I feel so good now that I think I could lick Dempsey."—John McGuire.

The simple mixture of buckthorn bark, glycerine, saline, etc. (known as Adlerika), has a most surprising DOUBLER action. First, it acts on BOTTLER upper and lower bowel (most medicines act on lower bowel only) and removes foul matter that often poisons the system for months. Second, Adlerika clears all GAS and sourness from stomach and bowels, bringing INSTANT relief from stomach trouble. And, in addition, Adlerika removes metabolic poisons which cause neuritis, rheumatism, etc.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, writes:

"Adlerika, in addition to its general cleansing, checks the growth of intestinal bacteria and builds." Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years practice I have found nothing to equal Adlerika."

J. E. Puckett: "After using Adlerika, I feel better than for 25 years. Awful impurities were eliminated."

It will astonish you the amounts of poisonous matter Adlerika brings out—matter you never believe was in your system. Chronic constipation, gas, sour stomach and sick headache. ONE spoonful Adlerika brings wonderful relief. At leading druggists. Sold in St. Louis by Wolff Drug Stores and other druggists.

Sayings of Mrs. Solomon

By Helen Rowland

WHY THEY ARE "MISUNDERSTOOD."

My Daughter, when lovers say, "How congenial are we! You, how perfectly do we understand one another!" then are my sleeves filled with laughter.

For, alas, how shall a husband and wife find UNDERSTANDING, so long as they dwell in different worlds?

Behold, a woman liveth always in her yesterdays; but a man liveth only for his tomorrows!

A woman sigheth for the sunsets that have gone and the moons that have waned. But a man looketh toward the rising sun of the future; and to him, every day is ANOTHER day, and every hour a new adventure!

A woman perceiveth her husband always as the ardent lover, the gay playmate and the enthusiastic pal of her courting days.

But a man perceiveth his wife only as the head of his house, the mother of his children, the guardian of his digestion, the alarm clock which awakeneth him mornings, and the curfew which curtail his evenings.

She saith, "Alas, dost thou no longer love me?"

And he answereth, "Sure! For why else did I marry thee?"

She sigheth, "Lo, ONCE thou didst observe the wave in mine hair and the blueness of mine eyes and the rose in my cheek!"

And he replieth, "Even so. But wherein have they changed?"

She saith, "ONCE thou hasten from thy work that thou mightest make merry with me."

And he answereth, "Yea, verily. For then was I a Free Man; but now I am a Provider, and must slave at my desk that I may pay thy bills and meet thy charge accounts!"

Go to. A woman yearneth always for the return of her lost lover; but a man yearneth only for a comforter and a companion, who will supply his needs, cater to his moods and hearken to his troubles.

Yea, even in the days of their courtship doth a woman plan to make the honeymoon last from the altar to the grave. But a man marketh off the date of its finish upon the calendar.

For unto a woman marriage is the beginning of romance! But unto a man it is the black coffee which "settles" him after the love-feast.

And in all the days of her life there are but two times when a woman receiveth ENOUGH compliments and ALL of her husband's attention—when she standeth before the altar at her wedding, and when she lieth before it, at her funeral!

SLEIGH!

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

THE NEW NURSERY

At home, at play and when they feed, Mothers know what babies need.
—Old Mother Nature.

THAT little saying is quite true. Mothers know what babies need. Whitefoot couldn't for the life of him see anything wrong with that little house he was living in in the apple tree. He had thought it a wonderful little house. He had been sure that Mrs. Whitefoot would be simply delighted with it. So, when she didn't want it, he was a little bit disappointed. "What's the matter with that house?" he cried, following Mrs. Whitefoot down to the old stone wall.

"Well, my dear, what are you going to do about it?" inquired Whitefoot.

"But what are you going to look somewhere else for?" demanded Whitefoot.

"So as to find a proper place for the children," replied Mrs. Whitefoot.

Whitefoot thought this over. He scratched his nose, first with one hand and then with the other. But all this scratching didn't enlighten him any. Finally Mrs. Whitefoot came to his relief.

"It isn't the house," said she, "it is the place it is in. The house is in the wrong place. It is too far for the children to go to reach the ground."

"I hadn't thought of that," said Whitefoot.

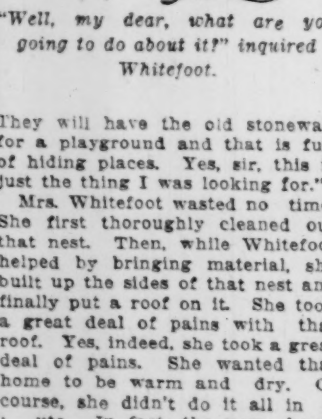

"Well, hereafter you might do a little thinking. It won't hurt you any," snapped Mrs. Whitefoot, who was cross because she was worried. Worried folk almost always are cross. Worrying and crossness go together.

"Well, my dear, what are you going to do about it?" inquired Whitefoot.

Mrs. Whitefoot didn't reply. She was running along the old stone wall and Whitefoot ran after her. Presently she stopped and looked up. In the bushes just a few feet above her was a nest. It was an old nest, built the summer before by Kitty the Catbird. Mrs. Whitefoot ran up to that nest. In it were a lot of dead leaves. She pulled these out. She looked it all over, outside and in. It was a very good nest. It was an unusually well built nest for Kitty the Catbird. Mrs. Whitefoot looked down at Whitefoot. "It will do," said she.

Whitefoot blinked at her. "What'll do?" he demanded.

"This nest," said she. "We'll put a good roof over it. We'll enlarge it a little and make a little entrance from underneath. When we get through with it we'll have a real home. It will be just the place to bring up the children."

They will have the old stonewall for a playground and that is full of hiding places. Yea, sir, this is just the thing I was looking for." Mrs. Whitefoot wasted no time. She first thoroughly cleaned out that nest. Then, while Whitefoot helped by bringing material, she built up the sides of that nest and finally put a roof on it. She took a great deal of pains with that roof. Yea, indeed, she took a great deal of pains. She wanted that house to be warm and dry. Of course, she didn't do it all in a day. In fact, the new home wasn't completed when she moved the babies there. She wanted some of the material of the old nest. Besides, she couldn't be building that new house and watching the babies at the same time when they were at a distance. "It is better to have them where I can keep an eye on them," she explained to Whitefoot. And, as is his way, Whitefoot agreed. He had found by experience that it is easier to agree than to disagree with Mrs. Whitefoot. It was easier and a lot more comfortable. He saw, of course, that there would be no room for him there, so he kept his home in the little wrenhouse in the apple tree, which was only a short distance away.

If She Should Ever Travel!

You are quite wrong, of course, but then we intended you should be. We did it a-purpose. We merely meant delicately to suggest that these were pictures and then to surprise you by saying that they are not pictures at all, but fabrics. Some of the new Spring silks which have scenery instead of dots or dashes for decoration. They are playground prints done in colors appropriate to the scenery. The one in the upper left is Palm Beach, with a background of cerise and a tree of blue and purple. Next to it is the Tuilleries Gardens, where everything should be couleur de rose, and the trees are. Next to that is Newport, with a deep blue sky and lanterns of rose and lemon yellow and pale green.

In the lower row of pictures in the first sketch is Bermuda, with a blue sea, a yellow shore and a rose umbrella against a green sky. Next to it is, or are, the Catalina Islands, with a sky and water of orange and a little shrubbery of green. Cherie has spoken for Bermuda, Dina for Newport, and the only thing to be decided on now is the fashion in which these fabrics shall be made into frocks. One thing is sure—they will buy the same pattern both in sheer silk and in heavier silk, because that is the newest thing to do with prints—to make the bodies of one weight and the skirt of another, but both in the same design. "It's such an inexpensive way to travel," says Cherie.

SPRING SUGGESTIONS

For the

AMATEUR GARDENER

(Eighth of a series on home gardening prepared by Shaw's Garden experts.)

SEED BOX MUST HAVE VENTILATION.

The box in which seeds are sown should have holes or cracks in the bottom. The first step is to cover these openings with broken crock, stones, etc. The box should then be filled to overflowing with sand or soil, leveled with a stick, and tamped lightly. The surface of the soil will then be about 1/2 of an inch below the top edge of the box. If the soil or sand is an inch below the top of the box much trouble may be anticipated with the damping-off disease due to the poorer air circulation. After the soil is tamped, the rows are marked with a stick or plant label, the stick being pressed into the surface to the depth which will interfere with the soil. For fine seed the surface is barely marked, but for large seed a deeper trench is required. Before making the rows the soil or sand must be moist, for if dry it immediately rolls back in the trench when the stick is withdrawn. After the rows are made the seed is ready for sowing, and for convenience one corner of the seed packet is torn off and the packet lightly tapped to secure an even distribution of the seed along the rows. It is best to allow one row for each kind of seed, or at the most one-half row for a kind. In this way the label can be placed either at the beginning or at the end of the row. If labels are placed in the rows they will interfere with the glass or paper cover.

Early Lettuce of Quality

NO early garden is complete without its lettuce bed. It requires only a small space to grow sufficient to supply an average family. Old-time gardeners spaded up a small patch in some convenient corner of the garden as soon as the soil could be worked in the spring and broadcast the seed and raked it in. The lettuce came up thick all over the beds and was pulled as fast as it attained edible size, thus thinning out, and later the well-developed plants were cut off and new leaves allowed to form. Leaf lettuce was the universal crop of the old-time gardener. Now leaf lettuce, particularly in cities, is scorned, as head lettuce is in the market the year around. Leaf lettuce is a fine salad plant for the home garden, as it must be fresh picked to be at its best, and it grows as easily as any weed, while head lettuce is a task for an expert gardener.

Letture. It must have sufficiently early start to mature in June. Otherwise there is little chance of success. Letture is one of the few crops that can be grown in a shady yard, provided it has two or three hours of sun during the day. It must have rich soil and plenty of moisture. In fact its quality depends upon speed of growth. Hot weather cannot stand, as it spins up to seed. The best method to raise quality lettuce is to sow it in a box in the house or in a frame outdoors and transplant. This is the only way the average gardener can successfully negotiate good head lettuce.

Jumbles—Soft.

CREAM together two-thirds of a cup of butter and one and one-half cups of sugar. Add three well-beaten eggs, one cup of sour milk in which one teaspoonful of soda has been thoroughly dissolved, and three cups of flour. Mix all well together. Add one teaspoonful of baking powder, one of cream of tartar, and one of salt. Drop by teaspoonful out to a greased pan and bake in a hot oven. (Copyright, 1928.)

curing a head. Lettuce is not injured by light frost, particularly if grown cold from the start. It can be conveniently planted between rows of other crops, as it will be used and out of the way in plenty of time not to interfere with their growth.

It is one of the most economically raised home vegetables, as a 3 or 10 cent package of seed will provide for the family's needs in abundance. Fertilize the lettuce bed as heavily as possible. You can't make it too rich. Head lettuce needs fat fare to make fat heads.

Honey Cake.

One cup butter, 4 cups flour, 2 cups honey, 2 level teaspoons soda, 2 well-beaten eggs, 1/2 teaspoon ginger, 1 cup sour milk, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon salt. Cream butter and honey, add well-beaten eggs, sour milk, flour and soda sifted together, spices and salt. Bake in a greased Turk's head. A very healthful and delightful cake.

The Child Who Lies

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.
Former President of the American Medical Association.

YOU have probably been much distressed by having your child lie to you even when the truth would seem to be better to its purpose. Of course, you have corrected the offender, possibly been so thoughtless and unreasoning as to punish him, for what, from the child's standpoint, was a perfectly justifiable course. In the majority of cases, such lies are the natural products of fantasies that compose its mental make-up.

Lying in children, falls into several classes. There is the lie to cover a theft or other sin, and save the child humiliation of confession and the subsequent punishment.

This, when successful, gives the child a sense of power and satisfaction either consciously or unconsciously. The most vicious type of lying is that prompted by jealousy or resentment towards members of the family or of intimate acquaintances; this is slanderous lying, and its object is to misrepresent or place in an uncomfortable position the person who is the object of the bad feeling. Then there are tendencies to "make believe."

It is good for a child to be frequently confronted with reality, and to fail to do this is either to invite great difficulty later on, when the child will learn things for himself, and blame his parents for keeping silent, or to allow the child, if it is so predisposed, to drift off into juvenile insanity, or divorce from reality. They must guard against allowing it to substitute the habit of day dreaming for the effort necessary to get enjoyment and satisfaction out of reality. In dealing with these fabrications it is neither necessary nor desirable to make the child admit that they are not real. It is much better to let him see that you are taking them as you would take any other interesting story; it is amusing but not meant to be anything else. It is less dangerous to encourage fantasies as confessed fiction than it is to try and stop them by constantly denying their truth or punishing the child. Punishment has the effect of filling the child with self-pity and driving him further into his romance to get away from harsh reality.

Pathological lying can be seen very early in life, and every effort should be made to get the child under the care of some private physician or clinic as soon as it is detected. Only the most careful study by a well-trained specialist is of any value.

LADDERGRAM

Registered U. S. Patent Office

Climb Down!

Every mother knows what it is for the angel child to Brandish his Bran Dish—in the old days in was called a porringer. Yes, this Laddergram's the Extension kind—each section is a word in itself, but another word is formed when you fasten them together. Start out with Bran and fill in each succeeding rung with a word which differs from the one above it by a single letter. Eight steps down the magic rungs should carry you to Dish; tomorrow we shall show one way of doing it. See if you can beat us at our own game by eliminating a rung or two, but play fair and don't use words you're secretly ashamed of. Yesterday's construction can be worked like this: 1. Glut; 2. Gout; 3. Toot; 4. Toot; 5. Toot; 6. Toot; 7. Toot; 8. Toot. (Copyright, 1928.)

Famous Inn Keeper Quits At Age of 86

FOR 27 years mistress of one of the most famous hotels in America, Madame Auguste Broche, an 86-year-old Frenchwoman, has just quit her post as keeper of the French flag which she kept flying through the World War and the more recent Turco-Greek conflict.

All other foreign hotels closed during those tumultuous days, Madame Broche alone kept her inn running. Now, broken in health and heavily burdened since the death of her two sons who went back to France to lose their lives in the war, she has decided to sell her "Hotel d'Anatolie."

Madame Broche has not seen her native France for 70 years, but she says that she is too old and ill to go back to die there. She went to Broussa when she was 14 with her father, who established a factory there. There she married a Frenchman also engaged in the manufacture of silk and after his death 47 years ago she turned her husband's factory into the hotel which has made her famous throughout the Near East.

During the war the Turks were part of her hotel to imprison captured British officers. The English prisoners delighted to work in the garden and some of them when their return home sent her seeds from the flower beds which they had tended.

Hungarian Goulash.

One pound beef from the round, one pound veal, one tablespoon olive oil, two dried onions, one tablespoon paprika, two cups strained tomatoes. Cut meat into cubes and add onion. Brown together in the oil and then add tomatoes, paprika and salt to taste. Cover and let simmer until the meat is very tender. A half hour before serving add a number of small potatoes. Frequently stir. Sprinkle with egg noodles or dumplings accompany this dish instead of potatoes.

The story of tooth-decay is often written in wrinkles

DECAYED teeth, many times, are the source of poisons that may seriously affect the entire system. Vitality is lowered. The radiant charm that is based on health vanishes. Tiny lines are etched into the face.

Decay strikes its most serious blow at The Danger Line, where teeth and gums meet. Particles of food are embedded in the tiny V-shaped crevices between the teeth—where no brush can reach. Fermentation begins. Acids are formed. Decay sets in and dangerous gum irritations.

Your dentist will tell you that Milk of Magnesia is the best means of overcoming this condition. And because Squibb's Dental Cream contains more than 50% of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, it neutralizes all of these acids, and remains to protect the teeth and gums long afterwards. Its delightful flavor makes it pleasant to use. Mild. Non-abrasive. Soothing. 40c for a generous tube at your drugists'.

What Some New York Notables Are Wearing

By Belle Brummel.

Whimsical are the moods of fashion that she accepts nothing as a sprit of resignation, not even the first of the Lenten season, upon us fashion perverts, her head in the direction of summer and early autumn.

From Paris fashion mode, Frills and ruffles are the summer fashions. Sprigged taffetas and figured organdies fashion bouffant and soft laces grace flowing and modest necklines.

There is much interest displayed in the new fashions. From 11 to the Sixty-sixth street entrance to Central Park, one may find the smart folk of the town in the smartest, astride their favorite mounts.

Mrs. George Crouch, who is devoted to horses, has a splendidly equipped stable on the Sixty-sixth street entrance to Central Park, one may find the smart folk of the town in the smartest, astride their favorite mounts.

Perhaps the most colorful opening of the week from a clothes point of view was the first night of "Our Betters." Gowns of the romantic era were much in evidence. Skirts described a dipping length, many in the Louis-boulevard silhouette, and with a conspicuous feature in all of them.

An example of the period frock favored by Alice Brady was developed in heavy black faille silk and accompanied by a tiny sleeveless jacket of cream lace which terminated at a normal waistline.

Color sense and the ability to choose the right shade for the season are of vast importance in the world of dress. In the apartment, one of the color sense of the past week.

Ferber served tea in a Chantrelle frock of scarlet crepe combined with a wide white belt, shimmering back panel and a rose felt hat molded with upturned brim.

Fashionable women glimpsed at hotel and restaurant, with few exceptions, to apt an almost uniform costume of daytime wear.

On Thursday, observed that a majority were dressed in tulle and lace, close fitting felt hats and fox scarfs.

Mr. Finlay Westover, seated at the table, was wearing a pair of favored colored slippers.

Satin or velvet sandals contrasting with the color of the gown are very popular for evening wear. The supper dance, given for the benefit of the Travelers Aid Society aboard the S. S. Saturday evening, practically all the Junior League girls in charge of the dancing: Winifred Traut, Mary Todd, Elizabeth Kount, Hope Livermore and several others favored colored slippers.
